Progress In Fight Against Pollution

"Steam plumes from the coke quench water tower at Granite City Steel have become noticeably whiter as the result of a $130,000 improvement in the plant's environmental control system," Donald F. Cairns, vice-president, said today.

"We have realized excellent results from the installation of a baffle system on the quench tower."

"There has been a significant reduction in the amount of coke dust escaping in the quench tower results when the quenching water sprays pour down on carloads of burning coke," he commented.

Designed by the company's Department of Environmental Quality Control, and installed on top of the quench tower, the baffle system consists mainly of three grids of louvered wood slats that knock pollutants from the steam.

"The baffles trap contaminants instead of letting them escape freely into the air. The result is whiter, or more pollution-free, steam plume," Dr. Cairns said.

Coke, an essential raw ingredient in steelmaking, is produced by heating bituminous coal in ovens without enough air present for the coal to burn. Freshly made coke is pushed from the ovens into a waiting transfer car at 1,800 degrees (F).

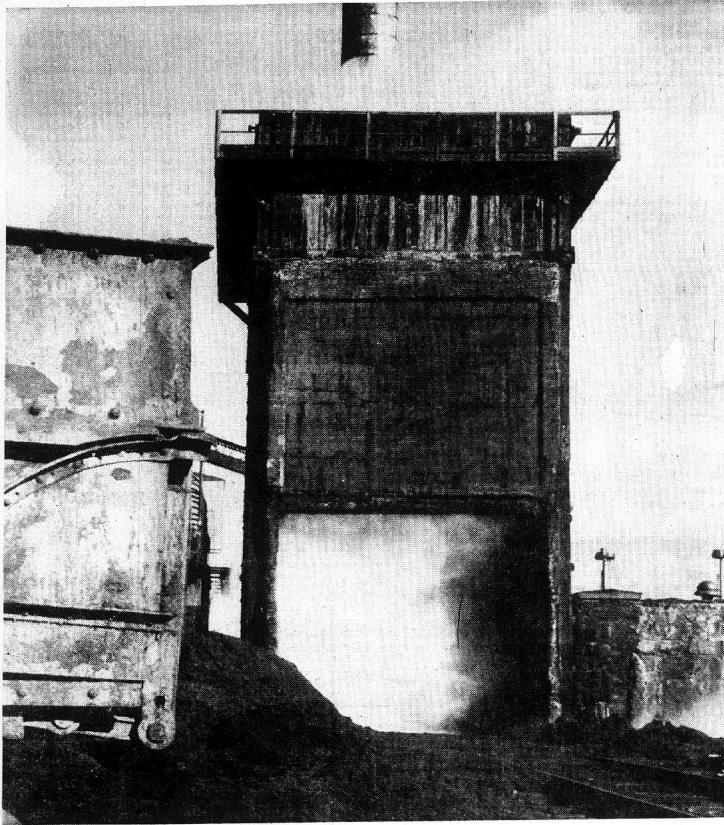

The car moves immediately under the quench tower, where about 4,500 gallons of water spray down to cool the coke to about 150 degrees.

This causes the release of a massive amount of steam which, if not controlled, can carry small particles of ash and coke dust into the atmosphere.

Dr. Cairns said the new baffle system reduces that possibility considerably.

The baffle system is part of a $130,000 worth of equipment the company is installing.

A $130,000 WOOD BAFFLE SYSTEM has been installed to reduce air pollution from the coke quench tower at Granite City Steel Co. Carloads of fresh coke are cooled by a water shower from 1,800 degrees (F.) to 150 degrees at the quench tower. The company reports that resulting steam plumes are whiter in color now, indicating less particulate matter in the steam. Part of a $4-plus million state-approved air pollution control program the company is implementing, the baffle system has increased the height of the quench tower from 39 to 51 feet. The photograph was taken during an actual quench.

Renewed Madison Interest in Base

The U.S. Army likely will have few problems disposing of portions of the Granite City Army installation which may be made available late this year, as at least one bidder already has announced intentions to purchase the property.

The Madison City Council Tuesday night passed a resolution asking that the 385 acres of the old depot which are within the city of Madison and all warehouses and buildings on that property be sold to Madison. A copy of the resolution was sent to Cong. Melvin Price in Washington, D.C.

In presenting the resolution to the council, Mayor Mike Sasyk cited an exclusive story in the Press-Record Jan. 25 which indicated the Pentagon plans to turn portions of the base not now being used for housing and Army personnel support over to the General Services Administration for disposal.

"We read in a newspaper that portions of the installation may be declared surplus in the near future. I know other organizations may get first crack at it, but Madison would like to try for all the ground that is within our boundaries," Sasyk told the aldermen.

Pentagon officials indicated last month that portions of the base which are to be offered, likely will be offered to other military sources, such as reserve training organizations, before it is offered to public bodies.

No official statements have been issued by the Army on the plans but final determination of the future of the base is expected shortly since the new federal budget has been announced.

In other business, Sasyk indicated he is preparing a report on progress in planning two new commercial shopping centers in the city and will present the report at the next council meeting Feb. 13.

The Mayor has indicated several businesses have shown an interest in locating at the proposed centers, "including one large, very well known store," he said.

Elmer Smith, superintendent of streets, reported that he purchased three used surplus trucks in Springfield last week for a total of $250. The 1962 trucks will be used for miscellaneous work.

The city attorney is believed to favor Mayor Donald Parney for re-election. Parney and Schuler are running for mayor this year.

Scroggins Alleges Schuler Signed Paper as 'Partner'

In a press conference this morning at City Hall, City Attorney Leon G. Scroggins provided documents which he says show Alderman Paul Schuler claimed to be a partner in the Vaughn Drug Store on Aug. 13, 1971.

Schuler has been a city alderman-town board member since April 1969 and the township bought drug items from Vaughn's after that date, Scroggins contends.

The city attorney is believed to favor Mayor Donald Parney for re-election. Parney and Schuler are running for mayor this year.

Scroggins said he acted today as part of his official role as city attorney. He was alerted to the issue by "a private party," he said.

He said he sent today the following letter to State's Attorney Nicholas J. Schuler, "Originally on Dec. 28, 1972."

John Bellcoff, Madison city clerk, answered on his Tri-City Regional Port District and Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission reports that he is Madison city clerk. On his city clerk's statement, he answered the public employment question with "none" because the port district and SIMAPC posts do not constitute members for services.

Several answered with other governmental or taxing agency posts they hold.

Don Reeves, Madison alderman, listed a Madison School District job; Leo Davinovic, the Venice School Board answered "City of Venice" and "Venice Park District" regarding employment; the Rev. Richard B. Brown, the Venice School Board answered he is compensated by the U. S. Army Aviation.

Coffee Beseda Set For Sunday at SIUE

John Rider, chairman of the faculty of mass communications at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will present a "Yugoslavian slide show at a coffee beseda to be held at 2 p.m. Sunday by the Slavic and Eastern European Friends of SIUE in the first floor auditorium of the SIUE Science Building.

The program will open with musical selections by the Balaika Orchestra of the Russian Orthodox Church of the Nativity of the Virgin Mary in Madison. The orchestra also will play at a social hour which will feature Slavic pastries. Persons with Slavic interests are invited to attend.

A Russian stringed instrument with a triangular body and a long fretted neck, the balaika did not appear in Russia until 1700. Like the guitar, it has been much used to accompany folk songs and country dances. Father Walter Lesko, pastor of the Nativity of the Virgin Mary, has been a leader in reviving interest in this instrument and about 28 persons are in his church orchestra.

Opposition for Many Offices; Few Filing Economic Statements

By GARY SCHNEIDER

Press-Record Staff Writer

Mass confusion seems to be the best explanation of the way in which the Illinois Ethics Act is being followed, operated and enforced.

Although the law calls for the filing of 1973 statements of economic interest by all taxing body officials and candidates for tax body posts, few Quad City area officials have filed the forms.

Among those who have given explanatory answers to questions on the form is Paul Schuler, a candidate for Granite City mayor. He said in 1972 that he did business last year with the Madison County Sheriff's Office, filling prescriptions through Midtown Pharmacy.

Mayor John E. Leo of Venice in 1972 answered that he held stock in the First National Bank in Madison and received income from the Venice school district as a dentist.

Henry Gabriel, a Granite City Park commission member, in his 1972 form answered that his firm provided architectural services to the Granite City School District and was employed by the Venice and Granite City schools.

Jerry Maeras, candidate for Venice Township tax collector, replied on his 1973 statement that he held half-ownership in the Fljan-Maeras Agency, a Madison real estate and insurance office.

He noted that the office applies to the county zoning board for permits and sells insurance to Venice Township. He said he is a half-owner of J & M Petrol of Madison which sells a small amount of gasoline to Venice Township.

It is legal to do business with taxing agencies other than the agency one is associated with. The forms do not allege interest conflicts; they are utilized to inform the public of an official's legitimate financial transactions.

John Bellcoff, Madison city clerk, answered on his Tri-City Regional Port District and Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission reports that he is Madison city clerk. On his city clerk's statement, he answered the public employment question with "none" because the port district and SIMAPC posts do not constitute members for services.

Several answered with other governmental or taxing agency posts they hold.

Don Reeves, Madison alderman, listed a Madison School District job; Leo Davinovic, the Venice School Board answered "City of Venice" and "Venice Park District" regarding employment; the Rev. Richard B. Brown, the Venice School Board answered he is compensated by the U. S. Army Aviation.

8 Questions On Finances

Economic interest statements include eight questions which must be answered. Most candidates and officials enter "none" in most of the blanks. The questions follow:

1. List the name and instrument of ownership in any entity doing business with the unit of local government in relation to which the person is required to file, in which the ownership interest held by the person at the date of filing is in excess of $5,000 fair market value or from which dividends in excess of $1,200 were received during the preceding calendar year.

(In the case of real estate, location thereof shall be listed by street address, or if none, then by legal description.) No time or demand deposit in a financial institution, nor any debt instrument shall be listed.

2. List the name, address and type of practice of any professional organization in which the person making the statement was an officer, director, associate, partner or proprietor, or served in any advisory capacity, from which income in excess of $1,200 was derived during the preceding calendar year.

3. List the nature of professional services rendered (other than to the unit of government in relation to which the person is required to file) and the nature of the entity to which they were rendered if fees exceeding $5,000 were received during the preceding calendar year from the entity for professional services rendered by the person making the statement.

4. List the identity (including the address or legal description of real estate) of any capital asset from which a capital gain of $5,000 or more was realized during the preceding calendar year.

5. List the name of any entity and the nature of the governmental action requested by any entity which has applied to the unit of local government in relation to which the person must file for any license, franchise or permit for annexation, zoning or rezoning of real estate during the preceding calendar year if the ownership interest of the person filing is in excess of $5,000 fair market value at the time of filing or if income or dividends in excess of $1,200 were received by the person filing from the entity during the preceding calendar year.

6. List the name of any entity doing business with the unit of local government in relation to which the person is required to file.

Granite City election battles for the offices of mayor and township supervisor, and opposition for aldermanic posts, in six of the city's seven wards, will highlight the April 3 city and township elections in this area.

Campaign battles also appear certain in Nameeki Township where a second full slate of candidates for town offices filed nominating petitions Monday night, and in Chouteau Township where a Democratic Party ticket has announced plans to seek nomination in a caucus scheduled Tuesday.

The party ticket, if it is nominated by a vote of township electors, would oppose a ticket of incumbent Chouteau Township officials, who have filed nominating petitions as the Citizens' Labor Party.

In the township balloting, Granite City is to elect City supervisor and assessor; Nameeki Township is to elect seven town officials and Chouteau township voters will choose eight town officials.

In Venice Township there will be no opposition to a ticket of eight candidates for township offices, headed by Christ Pashoff as supervisor.

Robert Stevens, incumbent city clerk of Granite City, and Paul E. Rutledge, incumbent city treasurer, will be elected without opposition. Steve Basarich, incumbent alderman of Ward Five, is the only aldermanic candidate who will have no opposition in the Granite City balloting.

The filing period for the April 3 elections, ended Monday evening with five candidates for Granite City aldermanic posts filing petitions shortly before the deadline.

Filings in Granite City Monday also included that of Ralph Astorian, 1716 Maple St., as a candidate for supervisor. Astorian, an unsuccessful candidate last November for Madison County recorder of deeds, will oppose Nelson Hagnauer, incumbent supervisor and a member of the County Board.

Von Des Cruse will be elected as Granite City Township assessor without opposition. Cruse, the only candidate to file for

Former Residents Still Await Word Of Son, 13, Now Missing One Year

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

It was one year and two weeks ago that Richard Griener, a 13-year-old Pekin, Ill. boy, disappeared after school and never has been found.

His parents were married in Granite City and lived in the area at the time of his birth at Jewish Hospital, St. Louis.

On the anniversary of his disappearance, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Griener of 8 Brenwood Court, Pekin, said that they fear their only son is dead and feel they will never know what happened to him.

Richard came home from Pekin's Edison Junior High School on Jan. 17, 1972, changed his clothes, picked up a new in plastic toboggan and told his mother he was going sledding on East Campus hill. He never returned.

After a frustrating year of hoping, watching and waiting for some word of their son, Merle and Helen Griener still grieve for the boy and keep a watchful vigil despite no results from efforts of law enforcement agencies attempting to solve the mystery.

Mrs. Griener said yesterday, "no evidence at all about Richard's disappearance has ever turned up."

In the Tuesday, Jan. 16, 1973, issue of the Pekin Times, a large advertisement was published showing Richard's picture and giving description. He was described as 5-feet tall, about 90 pounds, with dark brown hair and brown eyes.

RICHARD GRIENER
Missing One Year

At the time he left the Griener home he was wearing a gold colored nylon jacket with an attached hood, a long brown ski mask, blue jeans, green insulated boots and was carrying a blue plastic toboggan.

Anyone with information about the boy is being urged to contact George V. Harris, Pekin chief of police, at 346-3132 or 346-6728 (Pekin numbers).

Richard's parents were married on Dec. 10, 1953 at the First Presbyterian Church in Granite City. Their infant son was born on Aug. 15, 1958 and was baptized at the same local church.

Mrs. Griener is the former Miss Helen Long of Granite City. She attended local grade schools and was graduated in 1950 from Granite City High School. The mother took nurses training at Jewish Hospital, St. Louis, from where she was graduated as a registered nurse in 1953.

Richard's grandmother, Mrs. William (Maebel) Long, resides in this area. For many years, she was employed in the Granite City offices of Illinois Power Co.

As a high school student, Mrs. Griener was active in Job's Daughters, Bethel 43 of Granite City and taught Sunday school classes at the First Presbyterian Church when a young woman. She still retains membership here in New Hope Chapter 122, Order of Eastern Star.

Richard's maternal grandfather, William Long, was employed at the Granite City Army Installation from 1943 until his death in 1965.

"He was a well loved child, an honor student and everyone liked him," Mrs. Long said today, speaking of her grandson. "He certainly didn't run away, or leave of his own free will," she stressed.

The Grieners made their home in St. Louis for a while, later moving to Quincy and then Pekin. Mr. Griener is a patternmaker and had opened up his own shop in Peoria shortly before Richard disappeared.

The parents described the phenomenal number of searches, equipment which was donated and cash reward offered by interested Pekin residents as being "fantastic and overwhelming."

Mr. and Mrs. Griener, however, expressed extreme displeasure in their failure to get the FBI involved in a search for their boy.

The parents were told the law says the FBI may not and will not get involved unless there is proof of a kidnapping and the hostage is being held for ransom.

The Grieners feel their son was kidnapped, or at least was the victim of foul play in some degree. The family received a "most encouraging" letter from Vice-president Spiro Agnew, but in essence the official could only repeat the message heard often last year in the FBI cannot get involved—there is no proof of kidnapping.

Letters have been written to many legislators in all governing bodies from the bottom rung to the top with each letter, if answered, getting the same disappointing reply.

The couple explained they have exhausted every possibility and believes there is a dire need to change the laws governing the jurisdiction of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The Grieners also are the parents of a daughter, Jeanne, 12 years, whose activities are severely curtailed since her brother's disappearance one year ago.

The family used to be frequent visitors here and have many friends in this area. Mrs. Griener said yesterday, Richard has been here several times, she added.

Two weeks ago, members of the First United Presbyterian Church in Pekin, dedicated their church library to the memory of Richard Griener.

The library, which also served as Richard's Sunday school classroom, was named and dedicated in a short ceremony attended by his parents, relatives and friends. A plaque bearing his name has been placed on the door.

"It's as if he vanished from the face of the earth," the mother said sadly. How it is possible, no one knows.

Chief Harris told the family in the calls he has received from law enforcement officers in many parts of the United States—all report the case is unique.

"Chief Harris and the Pekin police have been wonderful," Mrs. Long said today. She described the vast number of planes, helicopters, motorcycles and other motorized equipment utilized in the search which lasted "day and night."

The Boy Scouts and many individuals joined in the carefully plotted hunt immediately after the boy was declared missing, the grandmother added.

Richard still is missing. But his parents continue to wait, watch and hope. Where is Richard Griener?

$100,000 Suit Filed Over Car Wash Mishap

A suit for $100,000 has been filed for James Little against Ronald Grzywa and Edward Goclan Jr., doing business as G&G Car Wash, 920 Madison Ave., Madison, in Madison County Circuit Court.

The complaint alleges that on Dec. 22 Little's auto was being washed when a steam pipe exploded, causing severe burns and scarring to the abdomen. Negligence was charged.

tion Systems Command in St. Louis.

William "Mike" Ebersold, city clerk of Venice, listed membership on the Levee District.

Peter C. Ponce, Venice park commissioner, said he is employed by the Venice school district.

Clifford Canner, a commissioner of Venice parks, answered by listing the Venice schools and the city of Venice.

Arthur W. Moore, supervisor of Venice Township, noted he is a Madison County Board member and received $2,925.

Louis E. Whittell, supervisor of Nameoki Township, said he received $3,003 as supervisor. Clarence Baumeier, a Granite City park commissioner, said he is a labor foreman with L. Wolf Co., contractors.

Charles E. Lexow, Chouteau Township tax collector, reported he has received gifts of over $500 from his father, Charles C. Lexow.

John Robert Ervin, Venice alderman, explained that he has been employed by the Venice schools.

The answers being provided throughout the state give little insight into the financial resources by most governmental officials.

However, if income sources not listed are later discovered, legal action may be taken against any official who filed a false document.

As mentioned, most officials here and elsewhere have not filed 1973 statements.

In conversations this week, a number indicated they filed in 1972 and had not been informed of the need to file new statements.

Some said they filed in mid-1972 and understood that the statements would be good for one year—at least through mid-1973.

Some candidates said they have not received the forms from the County Clerk's office and did not know they were required to file.

County Clerk office personnel indicated it is not their responsibility to send the forms to candidates but that they are accepting the forms and placing them on file, even though the deadline has passed.

"We are dating them the date they come in, if someone wants to dispute whether a statement is valid or invalid because of when it was filed, that will be up to the courts to decide," a deputy clerk said.

Confusion here seems to stem from confusion at the state legislative level. Legislation to extend the filing period to 30 days after such a bill passes is pending in Springfield.

Numerous local and state officials have failed to comply with the law and, in Bloomington, the city has filed suits against three mayors and 11 council candidates for failure to comply with the ethics bill. The suit asks that they be held ineligible to hold office because of the failures.

Although many interpretations of the law have been made, a predominant one seems to be the opinion by Wilbur R. L. Trumpe, superintendent, educational service region for Madison County, that "failure to file a statement of economic interests as required by law makes a candidate ineligible for the office he seeks and constitutes a forfeiture of office by one already serving."

Deadlines for filing, however, are anything but clear.

Dates of Jan. 29 for Granite City and Alton officials, Feb. 12 for other area villages and cities and March 23 for school board members have been suggested by some news media but are disputed by Clerk Eutalia Hors, county clerk.

"I can't find anywhere in the law where deadlines are set, I just wish there were deadlines. It would make our job easier," she commented.

"The law says petitioners for office should file ethics statements when they take the actions necessary to attempt to qualify for nomination as a candidate," she added. "This also applies to those seeking re-election, the way I understand it."

It also has been suggested that incumbents should file annually, even if not up for re-election. But it is unknown if the intent of the law is to have officials file each year or file one year after the filing of the last statement, she indicated.

Strict enforcement of the law as it applies to candidates for election this year might eliminate a substantial number of those seeking office, as they have not yet filed, even though they have qualified as candidates.

Granite City officials who filed statements indicating no conflicts of interest or interrelationships likely to cause conflicts—including Mayor Donald Partney, City Clerk Robert W. Stearns and City Treasurer Paul E. Rutledge, all seeking re-election. All filed 1973 statements.

Elections

the post, now is serving as assessor by appointment.

Highlighting the Granite City municipal election will be the fight for the mayor's post between incumbent Mayor Donald Partney and Paul Schuler, now an alderman of the Sixth Ward.

The mayor and Schuler frequently have been on opposite sides of issues brought before the City Council. A majority of council members is reported signing with Schuler in the approaching campaign.

Completed filings indicate three-way races in the election of one alderman in each the Sixth and Seventh Wards, although all filings are subject to a withdrawal period that will end Saturday.

Stevens announced today that the city clerk's office will be open Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon to accept final withdrawals here. Withdrawals in the township races may be made with the clerks of the respective townships.

In the city ward races, the three candidates seeking election as alderman in the Sixth Ward include Earl Baker, 2348 O'Hare St.; Arashah Astorian, 2968 Saragosa Ave., and Henry Kovalek, 47 Villa Drive. Kovalek is a former city alderman.

None of the candidates are incumbents since the post they are seeking is that vacated by Schuler to campaign for the mayor's office. It is the only ward in which the incumbent alderman is not seeking re-election.

The three-way race as alderman of the Seventh Ward involves opposition to incumbent Alderman Thomas Boker by Ronald Coleman, 2445 Woodlawn Ave., and Mary Ann Gaughan, 2105s Amos Ave. Mrs. Gaughan is a former Granite City assistant supervisor.

Other ward races involve: First Ward—William Dallas, incumbent, 2001 E. 20th St., and Robert Earl Gates, 2677 E. 23rd St.

Second Ward—Frank Greenwald, 2727 Grand Ave., incumbent, and Melvin "Red" Hill, 2128 Delmar Ave.

Third Ward—Roy Poulos, 2213 Benton St., incumbent, and Richard M. Patton, 2209 E. 24th.

Fourth Ward—E. E. Robertson, 2807 Benton St., incumbent, and John Zikewich, 2433 Center St.

Two full tickets of candidates are filed in the Nameoki Township election where a town clerk, assessor, town collector and four auditors are to be elected. Nameoki Township does not elect a supervisor this year.

A ticket filed as the Truth in Action Party and made up mostly of incumbent town officials, will be opposed by members of the Honesty & Integrity party ticket who filed nominating petitions shortly before Monday's filing deadline.

The Nameoki election campaign is expected to renew the political fight between the incumbent state legislator which is supported by incumbent Supervisor and County Board Member Louis Whittell, and the opposing ticket which is reported to have the backing of former Supervisor Harry Briggs.

The incumbent "Truth in Action" ticket includes Carl Macios, now an auditor, as candidate for assessor; Douglas Teetor, incumbent town clerk seeking re-election; Richard Peck as candidate for town collector; and Kenneth Gieson, Eugene Gargac, Norman Hessler and W. Lee Adams, candidates for town auditor.

Gieson and Gargac are incumbent auditors on the town board which formerly consisted of three auditors. Under new state laws, each township will elect an additional fourth auditor this year.

Opposing the incumbent group as members of the Honesty & Integrity Party are Tom Hill of Madison for assessor; Ross Halbrook, collector; Lester Frisse for town clerk; and Lloyd Miller Jr., Robert Strackeljohn, Peter Novasch and Larry Patton as candidates for auditor posts.

Only one ticket—the Citizens' Labor Party—has filed nominating petitions in Chouteau Township, but members of a second slate say they will be party ticket who filed nominating petitions shortly before Monday's filing deadline.

Salvation Army Opens Recreation Center

A youth recreation center is being operated in the basement of the Salvation Army building, 18th Street and Grand Avenue.

The main objective of the center, Ken Elliff, recreation supervisor, reports, "is to provide after school recreation in a healthy, supervised environment for the youth of our community." The center is equipped with a regulation pool table, a bumper pool table, shuffle board game table, a regulation tennis table and other group-participation table games.

Plans for addition and expansion are being discussed, and will be incorporated in the Salvation Army's proposed building project to begin in the middle of the year.

Participation in the program is lower than had been hoped, Elliff said. The average attendance per hour session is about seven, whereas there is a capacity for at least 20.

The center is open Monday through Friday, from 4 to 9 p.m. Persons interested in more information may visit or call at 451-7957.

Selective Calling Service Offered by SW Bell Co.

"Selective Calling Service—an optional intrastate long distance calling plan—became available to Southwestern Bell customers in Illinois effective yesterday, according to Dale Kaeshofer, Granite City unit manager for the telephone company.

Two types of service offerings are available: A round the clock (seven days a week, 24 hours a day) and off-peak hours (5 p.m. to 8 a.m. weekdays, all day Saturday, Sunday and selected holidays).

"Customers may select Illinois community exchanges from within two different mileage bands, Band A and Band B," Kaeshofer said. The off-peak-hours plan has a minimum rate of $1.80 per month for up to four exchanges.

A higher rate of $2.55 a month applies for Band B exchanges. Slightly higher rates are also charged for around the clock services.

Directly-dialed, station-to-station calls may be made to the selected exchanges up to a minimum calling time of 30 minutes. If the total calling time exceeds 30 minutes, charges of 80 cents to $1 for each additional 10 minutes, depending upon the plan selected, will apply.

For additional information, Kaeshofer said, customers may contact their local telephone company business office by calling 452-8600.

Kennedy Bill Would Set Primary in August

A bill to change the date of the state primary election from March to the third Tuesday in August was to be introduced in the Illinois General Assembly by State Rep. Leland Kennedy of Alton.

Kennedy pointed to the last primary in March 1972 which was followed by a legislative session from April through June in which numerous lame ducks were conducting state business.

He said this could be avoided in the future by holding the primary election after the legislative session. If adopted the change would take effect in 1974.

Cheryl Gertsch Named Homemaker of Tomorrow

Cheryl A. Gertsch has been named Granite City High School's 1973 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Chosen on the basis of scores in a written knowledge and attitude examination administered to high school seniors here and throughout the country last Dec. 5, she will receive a specially designed award from General Mills, sponsor of the annual Betty Crocker Search for American Homemakers of Tomorrow. In addition, she remains eligible for state and national honors.

The State Homemaker of Tomorrow, to be selected from all school winners in the state in judging centering on results of the Dec. 5 test, will receive a $1,000 college scholarship. A 2-volume reference work, "The Annals of America," will also be presented to the state winner's school by Encyclopedia Britannica Educational Corp. The second-ranking student in the state will receive a $500 scholarship.

In late April, the 51 Betty Crocker Homemakers of Tomorrow representing every state and the District of Columbia — each accompanied by a faculty adviser — will gather in Washington, D.C., for an expense-paid educational tour of the capital city and colonial Williamsburg, Va.

Personal observation and interviews during the tour will be added to state-level judging results in the selections, to be announced at a dinner in Williamsburg, of the 1973 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow and three runners-up. Scholarships of the four national winners will be increased to $5,000, $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000.

Instituted in last year's Betty Crocker Search, a $1,000 nutrition scholarship is part of the program again this year. Recipient of this award will be the participating student who plans a college major in nutrition or a related field, ranks among the highest in his or her state on the overall examination and, from those meeting these two criteria, achieved the top score on the exam's nutrition questions.

Science Research Associates, Chicago, constructed and graded the written examination, and is responsible for all judging and selection of winners.

A total of 665,600 seniors were enrolled in this year's Search, the first in which boys were eligible to participate. About nine million students have taken part in the program since its inception in the 1954-55 school year and, with this year's grants, total scholarship awards will exceed $2 million.

Regarding the inclusion of boys in the program, General

In today's changing society, that teamwork will undoubtedly become increasingly important during the years ahead. That is why high school senior boys as well as girls are now eligible to join the Betty Crocker Search, with full opportunity to earn scholarships and, hopefully, gain the other educational benefits of participation."

Warriors Snap Undefeated Maroon Mat Record in Tuesday's 'Barnburner' Meet

In what was described as a "barnburner," the Granite City High School wrestlers handed Belleville West its first loss of the season in a dual meet at Belleville Tuesday evening. Granite City's edge was only four points, 34-30.

The meeting had been described by Warrior Coach Bill Schmitt as a highlight of the season as Granite City, undefeated at 19-0 for the dual meet season, and the Maroons, with a 16-0 record met to determine which of the top team in the sectional area.

A crowd of more than 1,000 fans, the largest for a wrestling event in Maroon history, viewed the see-saw battle.

The meet started with a 2-2 draw as Warrior Pat MacMillan (88 pounds) lost a 2-1 edge by stalling in the final period. Phil Lapinski (105) then gave Granite City the lead by maneuvering Maroon Bruce Mitchell into his first defeat of the season. Mitchell had been 17-0 going into the match.

John Niebur (112) started a Warrior streak with a 9-2 victory, followed by a 13-5 win for Kerry Johnson (119) and a 10-0 superior decision by Dennis Ragan (126) to give Granite City a 15-2 edge.

"At that point we thought we were going to blow them out of the gym like last year's 62-0 victory, but then it began to turn," Schmitt commented.

Warrior Dan Heath (132) was pinned in 3:25 and Dave Rushing (138) followed in a 6-2 loss to close the score to 15-11. Granite City holding the narrow edge.

Ken Nolan (145) added three points for the Warriors with a 5-0 decision but the Maroons gained nine points in the next two matches.

First Brian Wilson (155) lost a 5-1 decision and then Jack Schooley was handed an upset as he was pinned in 2:38. "We thought we would win Schooley's match and we would be home free. The pin gave them 20 points and us 18," Schmitt said.

John Avedisian (185), the wrestler with the worst record of any on the squad this season, gave his all in the second to final match for a 6-0 decision to give Granite City a 21-20 edge with only the heavyweight bout remaining.

"Victory or defeat for Granite City rested on the shoulders of John McMillon who knew it was up to him to keep alive the Warrior streaks of 40 consecutive dual meet wins and of 178 victories against Southern Illinois teams.

Disheartened Granite City fans watched as McMillon fell behind 2-1 in the first two periods but in the final period he came alive to excite the crowd. He then took down his opponent and put him in a near fall situation for a 6-2 decision and the 24-20 win for the Warriors.

"It was a real disappointment for Maroon Coach Wally Ruth, the 'dean of Illinois wrestling coaches,' to have his team's undefeated streak broken in his last season of coaching," Schmitt said. Ragh started the wrestling program at Belleville West in 1937 and has been head coach of the team since that time.

The Warriors also were victorious against the Maroons in the junior varsity ranks' 34-12 and on the sophomore level, 35-20. Both shattered undefeated streaks for the Maroon squads and extended Warrior streaks.

In the JV ranks, where each team had a 9-0 record before Tuesday's matches, Warriors Jim Caschetta (105), Rudy Pyle (112) and Steve Kraus (185) earned pins. Russ Halbrook (98) fought to a superior decision and decision victories were credited to Dan Heath (126), Kerry Johnson (132), Chester Fetter (138) and Charles Cobb (165).

The sophomore win broke a 2-0 record for West and extended the Granite City record to 8-0.

Since GCHS does not have a ninth grade, the Coolidge Junior High School matmen represented Granite City in the four-grade event. The Maroons earned their only victory of the day in the ninth grade ranks with a 45-13 edge.

The varsity and sophomore Granite City teams will host East St. Louis and Lincoln in the Granite City High School gym annex at 7 p.m. Friday.

The varsity team will meet Lincoln while simultaneous matches will pit the sophomores against East St. Louis.

The matches will end the dual meet season for both Warrior teams and will be the final chance for an opponent to stop Granite City's undefeated streak.

A varsity win would end the dual meet season with 42 straight Warrior successes over the past three seasons, give the team a 21-0 season record and extend the string of victories against Southern Illinois teams to 180 since 1956.

Following tomorrow's competition, only the conference, district, sectional and state tournaments will remain on the Warrior varsity schedule.

Venice Cagers Now 17-0, Defeat Freeburg By 54-45

The Venice High School Red Devils have increased their perfect season record to 17 wins as they returned from Freeburg with a 54-45 cage victory Tuesday night.

It was a Freeburg game at the end of the first two quarters, 10-8 and 18-15, when Venice got hot and outpointed their opponents 21-8 for a third quarter score of 36-26. In the final act Freeburg outscored Venice 19-18.

The Devils outshot Freeburg from the floor 28 to 11 but in charity shots it was Freeburg in front 11 to 2.

Devil Ray Mosby fouled out early in the fourth quarter as the Venice cagers chalked up 14 fouls to Freeburg's five.

"I was very unhappy with the game," Coach Bill Ohlendorf commented. "We were just not playing ball. I am not sure why. It was probably a combination of several factors, including an after tournament letdown."

Ron Henry led the Venice point makers with 13, followed by J. B. Harmon and Cornelius Wiley with 12. Tony Sifton 9 and Dan Severs and Mosby 4.

The Venice cagers will host the Madison Trojans at 4 p.m. Friday.

Due to limited seating space in the VHS gym attendance at the game will be limited to students of the two participating schools. According to school officials there will be no tickets sold at the door and students must go to their school office, present student identification and pay 50 cents to attend the game.

'Y' Matmen in E. Alton Meet

The YMCA wrestling team, the "Y-Knobs," will be going to the mats with the East Alton Recreation Center at East Alton at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

The YMCA here, East Alton was the victor with the Tri-City group giving them some real competition.

Coach Kent Dunn, with the volunteer help of ex-Granite City High School wrestler Len Fuchs, is trying to develop stamina and good techniques in the boys.

The boys will leave the YMCA at 1:15 p.m.

Future matches are being scheduled with the West County and North County YMCAs of St. Louis, the Granite City Park District Program, and tournaments with the U.S. Wrestling Federation.

Information about the "Y-Knobs" program can be obtained by calling Coach Dunn at 876-7200.

Warrior Cagers Out of Action

The Granite City High School varsity cagers will be without the services of starters Dave Schneff and Brett Champion in a twin bill this weekend.

The two cagers twisted their ankles in practice this week, according to Coach Don Deterding.

The Warriors play at Alton in a Southwestern Conference game on Friday and will host Sparta on Saturday. Both games begin at 8:15 p.m.

The Cougar cagers of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville won their fifth game in a row by upending Rockhurst College of Kansas City, Mo., 89-83 Wednesday night at the Edwardsville High School gym.

Five of Coach Jim Dudley's charges scored in double figures in a balanced attack as the Cougars upped their season's record to 11-6. Last season the Rockhurst Hawks blasted SIUE by a 102-94 score.

Terry Carlson led the Cougars in the scoring column with 17 points while Leon Wright, Thurman "Butch" Ferre and Tony Johnson bucketed 16 each. Denny Thronberg 14, Sam Holmes 6 and Frank Ramsey 4. Hawk Curtis Koch took game honors with 21 points.

The Cougars held a 53-47 half-time lead but the Hawks tied it at 57-57 early in the second half before SIUE went ahead to stay.

SIUE Jayvees Down Dutchmen

Connecting on 28 free throws, the Southern Illinois University Jayvees junior varsity basketball team defeated Belleville Area College 80-66 Wednesday night at the Edwardsville High School gym to win its 10th game in 11 outings.

Freshman guard Ron Roundtree paced the young Cougars with 21 points. Others with double figures were Tom Howard and Jim Oleky with 14 each, Mike Vanhecke 13 and John Strubberg 12. SIUE, which held a 43-37 half-time lead, outshot the Belleville Dutchmen 26 to 25 from the field.

Rosenbloom to Head Industrial Commission

Gov. Dan Weldon Tuesday appointed Melvin L. Rosenbloom, a labor-management arbitrator since 1970 as chairman of the Illinois Industrial Commission.

State law requires the commission head be impartial, that he not be a representative of labor management. As an attorney, Rosenbloom has represented major clients in collective disputes bargaining from both sides.

The other four members of the commission are to be evenly divided in their representation of employees and employers.

The salary for the chairman is $30,000 annually. Gov. Walker said:

"I feel that Mel Rosenbloom is uniquely qualified to head the industrial commission, as witnessed by the trust placed in him on both sides of the bargaining table, as an attorney and as an arbitrator."

The American Bar Association's subcommittee on occupational safety and health will aid him in the preparation of state health and safety standards which meet new federal requirements.

"During the past three years, Mel Rosenbloom has established a reputation as a fair and impartial arbitrator; he is the man Illinois needs to head the sensitive industrial commission."

Trip Around World

Madison Rotarians got a glimpse of what it is like to take a tour around the world at their Wednesday noon meeting in the Madison Recreation Center, Seventh Street and Lee Avenue, Madison.

Ray Smith, South Roxana, showed the club slides of a trip he and his wife took on a freighter in 1965.

Rotarian President Jerry Maeras informed the club that District Governor Ken Buckley will pay an official visit to the club next Wednesday.

Tickets for the benefit basketball game on Feb. 22 at the Madison High School gym were distributed.

President Maeras called attention to a Feb. 14 ladies' night program now being planned.

MORE ABOUT Scroggins

I inquired of your office concerning a possible conflict of interest by a Granite City alderman.

"On Jan. 8, 1973, I furnished your office further information concerning this matter.

"Pleas find enclosed herewith a business information form executed on Aug. 13, 1971, by Paul Schuler as a partner in Midtown Pharmacy and Vaughn Drug Store.

"You will also find enclosed a replica copy of the examination of documents by William H. Storer, concerning his examination of the signature on a document dated Aug. 13, 1971, together with a resume.

"After completion of your study in this matter, I would appreciate being advised of your conclusions."

Storer said that in his opinion the handwriting was the same as that on 16 documents Schuler had signed for the city government in 1972.

Schuler and Donald Vaughn were partners in the Vaughn store at 1836 Delmar Ave. prior to Schuler's election as an alderman.

Schuler, a former Granite City police district president, says he withdrew as a partner in the Vaughn pharmacy shortly after his election to the city post. He continues to operate Midtown Pharmacy.

State Forestry Camps Aid Many Young Men Adjudged Delinquent

By WALTER STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer

According to the National Council on Crime and Delinquency and projected Federal Bureau of Investigation figures, one out of every six young males will have an encounter with the law for other than a traffic ticket. And one out of nine girls will do the same.

When the local community, the county and almost everyone else has given up on a young person, he may find himself adjudged by the court as a delinquent.

He then may be committed for an indefinite time to the Illinois Department of Corrections' Juvenile Division.

The young male offender is first sent to the division's Reception and Diagnostic Center, located at Joliet, Ill.

His stay there will range from six to eight weeks, during which time he will receive intensive screening by social workers, counselors, psychologist and educators.

He also will undergo extensive observation of his attitudes, actions and general behavior patterns.

Using a team approach, the staff members at the Reception and Diagnostic Center then will try to place him in the division's facility that they feel will be best for the boy and for the public.

If the lad is hostile and demonstrates extremely aggressive attitudes, he will in all likelihood go to the Illinois Industrial School for Boys at Sheridan, Ill. It is a maximum security institution with facilities and staff geared to help the boy with these problems.

If the young man is considered able to adjust in a less structured setting, he may be sent to one of eight special forestry camps.

Preparing a young person to return to society and become a useful and productive citizen is the aim of the Juvenile Division, Department of Corrections, of the Illinois state government.

An example of the methods being used in the forestry camps is provided by an in-depth look at the program of the Giant City State Boys' Camp, located 13 miles south of Carbondale.

Set deep in the beauty of the state park, the young men, ranging in age between 16 and 20, get the benefit of several cooperating state agencies, such as the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation (DVR), Division of Vocational Training and Education (DVE), the well-trained staff of the forestry camp and supporting services from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, in addition to the citizens of the Carbondale area.

The camp staff is headed by Warner G. Semetis, a certified social worker holding a master's degree in guidance and counseling plus 13 years of experience in the field of juvenile corrections.

Working with Semetis are four DVR staff members who assist in getting the young men, known in the camp as "students," into special training programs.

Programs at the camp itself include a basic electronics course under the direction of Robert Banks, an educator.

Fundamentals of electrical transmission and wiring are taught and the program is being expanded to include air-conditioning and refrigerator repairs.

Another training program is one in fire cleaning and apparel processing. Some students are enrolled in on-the-job programs in the city of Carbondale.

The young men have worked in such businesses as Winkie's Restaurant, Downtown State Communications doing radio repair, a Shell service station and the Golden Bear Restaurant.

If a young man shows academic possibilities, he may be enrolled in Carbondale High School, where he will receive the personal attention of Arthur Black, principal.

The young men also work at the Anna State Hospital laundry.

To give the camp staff and DVR staff a chance to better help the boys, they spend their first few months helping the park custodians with park maintenance.

Particular attention is given to the lads' work habits and attitudes.

Special remedial reading courses are taught in camp by John Philippi, an instructor.

Thanks to the Shawnee Library System of Carterville, Ill., the camp has its own library, with over 500 hardback books, 20 magazine subscriptions and five newspapers.

B. G. Niemeyer, a professional librarian and educator, is at the camp 20 hours a week to assist the students.

Meetings are held weekly by the student-elected Student Council with the staff advisor.

Every Thursday, sessions are held with the camp executive staff to discuss problems.

A recreation program—including basketball, softball, hiking in the woods, camping overnight, fishing and swimming—also is geared to help the boys develop better attitudes toward themselves and the world.

The students are trained to aid in disasters, such as forest fires, and have been credited by local authorities with saving houses last spring when an orchard nearby caught fire.

A "behavior modification" program is under the supervision of Dr. Roger Poppert of the Rehabilitation Institute at SIUC, and is implemented by Mel Hughes and Neil Crowley, graduate behaviorists.

They are setting up a program known as "positive progress," in which the students get "positive points" for everything they do right and negative points for things they do wrong.

With the points for doing well, the students may "buy" all available privileges. For extra work, they receive extra points.

"This is not an unusual reward-punishment system; everyone operates this way in the real world," Hughes explains.

"Speed and you get a ticket; work hard and earn money on the job, and you get rewards that go with it."

"We are working with attitudes and judgments here," Semetis comments.

"Our students generally have poor judgment and that's why they get here in the first place. This is coupled with a poor attitude toward all authority figures, regardless of what they may be."

"We try to give our program to the individual boy so that he can succeed at various levels, thus improving his work and attitude adjustments and the youths' self concept so that he will return to society more able to perform within acceptable limits."

Dr. Champ Brahe, assistant camp director, works closely with the other individuals and with state agencies in setting up new programs and procedures.

Lynn D. Unterbrink is general superintendent of forestry camps and schools.

Special honors were paid to the State of Illinois when Joseph E. Coughlin, assistant director of the Department of Corrections, in charge of the entire Juvenile Division, was elected national president of the American Correctional Association.

GC Steel Credit Union Has Successful Year

The Granite City Steel Employees Federal Credit Union experienced its most outstanding and successful year in our 31-year history," Joe Lucido, manager, told members at its annual meeting this week.

Lucido said the credit union had increased its total assets more than $1 million in the past year, while loans had increased more than half a million dollars. He credited the careful guidance of the organization's board of directors and committees—as well as the confidence of the members—for the success of the credit union.

About 1,200 members and guests attended the annual meeting in the cafeteria of the Granite City High School. Ernest E. Ill, president, conducted the meeting and the election of officers.

Six directors were elected, including five holdovers from the old board—vice president Alex Skubish, Russell Robinson, Charles King, Robert Kelly and Bert Houston. Newly elected as a director was Leo Six.

Beginning their second year as directors are treasurer Billy Heath, secretary George Grimm, William Webb, Edison Phelps and Ed.

Lucido reported that assets of the GCS Credit Union had climbed to $9,681,797 at the end of 1972. Included in the assets were loans outstanding in the amount of $6,217,928.

Shares held by members totaled $8,733,963 at the end of the year, while 6,678 members were listed.

Dividends paid to members during 1972 approached half a million dollars. The semi-annual dividends amounted to $422,853.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served and prizes were awarded.

WE GIVE THANKS FOR PEACE

With the long awaited peace in Vietnam, we feel impelled to thank Providence... and we pray that our war weary men and women in Asia will be brought home quickly to their loved ones... that the P.O.W.s and Missing will be found and accounted for...

We pray that peace will assuage the trauma of the bitter losses and the hardships in this conflict... that those at home will be relieved of their anxieties, fears and tensions... that our men will come home to a thankful and appreciative nation... to enjoy a normal, fulfilling and joyful life...

We pray that our country will concentrate on being united in a progressive effort to do what has been delayed so long in providing a new domestic priorities, a safeguarding of resources, a renewal of education and spiritual growth...

We give thanks to all the past Presidents and our present President for all their efforts to attain peace during this Vietnam conflict period.

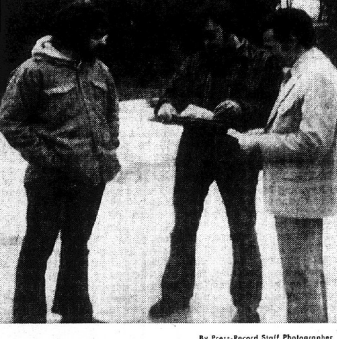

We pray for a secure, expanding economy that will serve all our citizens and their needs.

Our wish for Peace in Asia may not be totally fulfilled, but that will finally be determined by Asian themselves. Knowing how our nation has persevered to obtain freedom and peace for all mankind, we can feel conscious free to settle for peace for ourselves. No one in all history can ever say that we have not earned Peace.

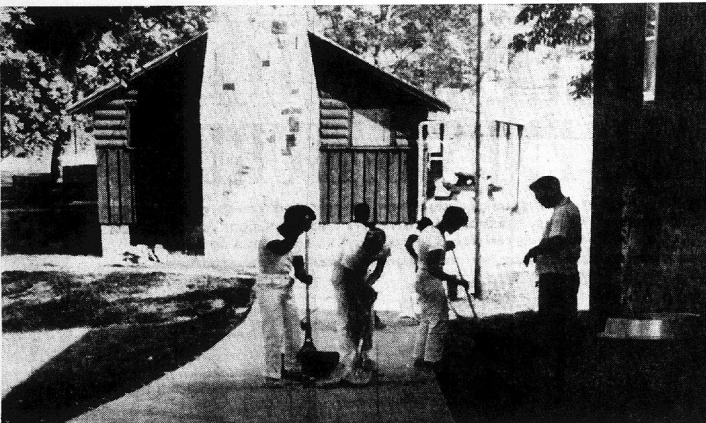

And we shall always hope as is said in Isaiah, in the 2nd, chapter, 4th verse... "He shall judge between the nations and shall decide for many peoples and they shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks... nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

PRACTICAL ELECTRONICS COURSE. A practical electronics course is taught at the camp in the fundamentals of electrical transmission, wiring and circuitry. With the co-operation and assistance of the Division of Vocational Training and Education the student will learn enough skills to aid him in securing a job and become a productive citizen.

BEHAVIOR MODIFICATION is the aim of the Giant City State Forestry camp under the jurisdiction of the Juvenile Division of the Illinois Department of Corrections. Discussing progress of a trial program, known as "Positive Progress," are, from left, Mel Hughes and Neil Crowley, both SIU-Carbondale graduate students, and Warner G. Semetis, a certified social worker who is the camp director. A professional correctionist, he has 13 years of experience.

BEAUTY OF GIANT CITY State Park surrounds and uplifts young men assigned to the state forestry camp there. The boys in return help maintain the park while also attending reading and other classes and learning occupational skills.

WELDING PRACTICE at the Giant City State Boys' Camp, one of eight such centers operated by the Illinois Corrections Department's Juvenile Division to aid young men in the 16-20 age range.

REHABILITATION AND RECREATION. Varied recreation is provided and outdoor basketball is the most popular. All programs are geared toward developing positive attitudes for a return to society.

Pontoon Beach GI in Europe

Private Olan Schrock, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland L. Schrock, 46 Kaseberg Park, Pontoon Beach, has been assigned to duty with the U. S. Army in Germany.

He recently completed eight weeks basic instruction and eight weeks of advanced AIT training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

The serviceman attended Granite City High School. His wife, Robin, plans to join her husband in Germany later this year.

REVIVAL STARTS SUNDAY AT PENTECOSTAL CHURCH

The Rev. and Mrs. Aaron Holway of Granite City will conduct revival services each evening at 7:30, beginning Sunday, at the Pentecostal Church of God, 2156 E. 24th St.

Special singing and "old-time" preaching will be featured at the evening services. It was announced today by Bobby George, pastor of the host church.

Tentative plans call for the revival to continue for one week, the minister said. Should the response warrant a longer period, the programs will be extended, he advised.

MITCHELL STUDENTS from the fifth grade, who organized a March of times campaign similar to the community-wide drive, using committees and key leaders, shown with their adviser, Walter Wisniewski, fifth grade teacher, at left. ### Lutheran Ladies Preparing Boxes

Sixty area Lutheran Churches are participating in the second annual project to prepare 500 "Lutheran Ladies Love Boxes," to be distributed to patients at Alton State Hospital on Valentine's Day.

Both food and sundry items will be packed into individual boxes and decorated at the Zion Lutheran Church, Bethalto, on Feb. 11, 12 and 13. Delivery of the boxes will be made between 10 and 10:30 a.m. on Feb. 14.

Among the items being collected are cookies, fruit, candy, coin purse, ball point pens, gloves, jewelry and hand lotion. Each patient will receive a box, according to Dr. Joseph Gruber, administrator.

The ladies formerly packed the boxes and delivered them at Christmas, however, last year it was decided to change the date to Valentine's Day. The feeling being that everyone would enjoy them more after the regular holiday period, Dr. Gruber said.

Following the lead of their adult counterparts throughout the community, students at Mitchell Grade School organized their own March of Dimes campaign and solicited funds from schoolmates to aid the annual drive and help eliminate birth defects in children.

Encouraged by Mitchell Principal Arthur E. Menendez, the students appointed leaders to run the campaign, with Mary Barrington and Richard Kindel named to serve as drive co-chairmen. Both are fifth grade pupils.

Mrs. Paul Schuler, March of Dimes chairman for schools in the Granite City fund-raising program, reported that Walter Wisniewski, a fifth grade teacher, served as faculty adviser to the youthful campaigners.

The student leaders decorated a large box, cutting a slot in the box so each child could insert his contribution envelope, Mrs. Schuler said.

The new arrival weighed seven pounds, 14 ounces and has been named Kristin Erica. Her sisters are Amy, 13 and Beverly 12 years old.

ROBERT DANES PARENTS OF THIRD DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Laura) Danes, 6682 Chesapeake Drive, Florissant, Mo., are announcing the birth of their third daughter, born Jan. 28 at St. Luke's Hospital, St. Louis.

Mrs. Danes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roseman, 2120 Richmond Ave., and is the vocal music director at Granite City High School.

The new arrival weighed seven pounds, 14 ounces and has been named Kristin Erica. Her sisters are Amy, 13 and Beverly 12 years old.

EXHIBITION BALLROOM DANCERS, winners of many awards in the ballroom dancing field, who will perform at the third annual Mardi Gras Ball to benefit the Madison County American Cancer Society on Saturday, March 3 at the Lewis and Clark Restaurant.

Dancers to Appear at Mardi Gras Ball

The Sowder-Wuellner Dance Team, well known exhibition ballroom dancers in the St. Louis area, will perform at the Madison County American Cancer Society's Mardi Gras Ball, it was announced today.

The ball will take place March 3 at the Lewis and Clark Restaurant, East Alton, from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m.

Persons interested in attending the event are invited to contact the American Cancer Society, 528 Henry St., Alton, or Mrs. Harriet Horn or Earl Dotzauer, both of Granite City.

The Sowder-Wuellner dancers made a successful appearance at the 1971 Mardis Gras Ball. At this year's affair, the dancers will present several award winning dance routines the group has performed at various contests during the past year.

For the last three years the two couples have been appearing together. They compliment the size and height of both partners, an important factor maintaining proper dance lines, authorities have noted.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Sowder are instructors at the Continental Studios in St. Louis. He has been performing on stage since the age of 9 years and, as a teenager, he appeared at the RKO Theatre in New York and did network TV shows.

Sowder toured Europe with the "First All Army Talent Show," with such stars as Frankie Gorshin, Vic Damone and Eddie Fisher. After serving in the Armed Forces, he returned to school at Northwestern University, which included doing summer stock and local TV shows.

He later produced the Arthur Murray Dance Party in Chicago, while being active in room dancing. It was through teaching ballroom dancing that he met his wife, Linda. Together, they have been teaching dancing and performing in competitions and exhibitions throughout the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wuellner of Alton, have been dancing for many years, and have had professional tutelage for six years now. They have competed and won first place awards in regional and worldwide competitions, and have made many appearances throughout the St. Louis area.

Their shelves of dance trophies cover the full ballroom dance field, including waltz, fox trot, quick step, tango, mambo, cha-cha, merengue, east-coast and west-coast swing, samba, rumba and bolero.

Because of the fun and challenge of it, the Wuellners manage to find time for exhibition ballroom dancing, even though they have a family of 11 children.

At present, they are studying advanced styles and dancing in the world.

National Steel Corp. Earnings, Production Rise

National Steel Corp., owner of Granite City Steel Co. and third largest steel producer behind U. S. Steel and Bethlehem, reported Tuesday a 6% gain in operating profit to $67.1 million, or $3.59 a share, compared to $45.9 million or $2.46 in 1971.

The 1971 figures were restated to reflect a change to equity accounting. Sales in 1972 rose 8% from $1.32 billion to $1.66 billion.

Chairman George A. Stinson attributed the company's improved performance, in part, to "our ability to integrate Granite City Steel—acquired in 1971—effectively into our overall steelmaking complex."

National's raw steel production rose from 8.1 million to 9.8 million while shipments climbed from 7.2 million to 7.5 million tons.

Laclede Steel—'72 One of Best

Paul B. Akin, president and treasurer of Laclede Steel Co., has announced that the board of directors yesterday declared a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share on the common stock of the company. The dividend will be paid Feb. 23 to stockholders of record Feb. 14.

He reported that net earnings of $4,078,000 make 1972 one of the three most profitable years in the history of the company, and that "earnings from operations before income taxes are extraordinary items" of $4,454,000 for 1972 are well above the $1,705,000 figure for 1971.

Akin added that at present there is a heavy demand for steel, and that Laclede has increased prices with government-required cost justification.

He said that, unfortunately, the heavy demand for steel comes at a time when Laclede must operate its melt shop at reduced levels, in part due to install required air cleaning equipment.

He said Laclede is, therefore, purchasing semifinished steel to process and meet customers' needs. The premium cost for this steel, as well as an increasing cost of scrap, will offset some of the volume and government benefits for the next several months.

It is too early now to predict the net effect of these changes on first quarter earnings, he concluded.

Navy Lt. Beeler on POW List; Active GC Scouter

A U. S. Navy pilot and a former Granite City resident, who is widely known in Boy Scout circles here, is among the prisoners of war scheduled to be released by the North Vietnamese.

Navy Lieutenant Carroll R. Beeler, a 1961 graduate of Granite City High School, was shot down in Vietnam last May. The 29-year-old pilot is the son of W. L. (Tiny) Beeler, now a resident of Frisco, Tex. The Navy officer grew up in Granite City and attended local grade schools. He also was graduated from Parks Air College in California before joining the Navy nearly 10 years ago.

Beeler's family formerly lived in the 2400 block of Benton Street. His father expressed his happiness at seeing the name of his son on the POW list released last week by Hanoi. Beeler said he did not know of his son's status from May until last July when a statement against American bombing of North Vietnam was attributed to Lt. Beeler and 15 other American prisoners of war.

Active in the Boy Scout movement here from a young age until adulthood, Lt. Beeler attained one of the highest honors in scouting when he received the Order of the Arrow's Vigil Honors in November 1960. He was inducted into the Order of the Arrow Brotherhood in October 1957, served as secretary of the Cahokia Lodge in 1959, as vice chief in 1960 and chief the following year. Lt. Beeler achieved the highest rank as a Boy Scout by qualifying as an Eagle Scout on Aug. 22, 1956. He made Star Scout rank in April of the same year.

In 1958 he was a delegate to the National Order of the Arrow convention and took part in area conferences each year from 1956 to 1958. During the impressive Vigil Honors ceremony at Camp Graham, the Navy officer was bestowed the Indian name — Gensetee Saki'ma (Dancing Chief).

At age 11 he joined Boy Scout Troop 11, transferring to Explorer Post 6, sponsored by Concordia Lutheran Church, in April 1958. From 1958 until 1962, Lt. Beeler was an active member of the Explorer unit, performing with the Post 6 Indian dancers. He also served on the staff of Camp Sunken at Ponchartraine, Mo., and was a respected athlete at the high school level.

Release of the POWs apparently has been delayed due to procedural disputes within the four-party joint military commission made up of the United States, South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong. Viet Cong leaders reportedly joined the other commission members in Saigon today, clearing the way for cease-fire operations to start. The four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision (Canada, Poland, Hungary and Indonesia) likewise was unable to get its team members in place and operational due to a lack of logistical support from the military commission, officials said.

Senator Shot, Crime Bills to Be Pushed

U. S. Senate Democrats called yesterday for prompt action on a variety of anti-crime bills, citing the serious wounding of Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, armed services committee chairman, in a robbery Tuesday night in Washington.

Proposals included compensation of innocent victims of violent crimes, added benefits to wounded or slain policemen and their survivors, more incentives for all enforcement officers, and less access to deadly weapons.

Cougar Matmen Top Cincinnati In Cliff-Hanger

The Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville wrestling team ran its record to 3-0-1 in dual meets Tuesday night by defeating a strong University of Cincinnati team, 16-15, in a cliff-hanger match.

It was the first home match of the season for Coach Larry Kristof's SIUE matmen, who had captured a second-place finish in the powerladder 14-team tournament held last weekend at Southwest Missouri State in Springfield, Mo.

Doug Lee gave the Cougars a 4-0 lead over Cincinnati by winning the 118-pound event over Renard Haskins, 13-3.

Tom Trachsel, SIUE's 190-pound wrestler, gave the Cougars their winning margin by turning back Doug Tabor, 1-0, to run the score to 16-12 with only the heavyweight event to go. In that one, Robin Rummel to the visitors' Frank Sberg 6-7.

Other winners for the Cougars were: Capt. Dave Cross, 10-2 over Kevin Keller in the 150-pound event; Larry Pruitt over Jack Holloway, 8-4 in the 134-pound match; and Dennis Byrne took Don Macon, 9-2 in the 177-pound division.

The next home meet for the Cougars will be at 3 p.m. Friday, Feb. 9, in the University Center ballroom. Furnishing the opposition will be Central Missouri State College.

Walker -- No Tax Hike; Eliminate Waste and Reallocate Funds to Programs Which Serve People

Text of the "State of the state" message by Governor Dan Walker to the 78th session of the Illinois General Assembly on Tuesday:

I welcome the opportunity to share my thoughts with you in this traditional State of the State message.

The elected officials in the executive and legislative branches of government have been sent to Springfield to serve one of the most diverse states in the union.

And we reflect that diversity. Some of us are descended from the Scotch and English settlers who pushed up into Illinois from the South, 150 years ago.

Some of us have parents who were born in Italy or Ireland. We are men, we are women. We are black, we are white.

We speak a variety of languages. We come from the farms, the small communities, the middle-sized cities, and one of the greatest metropolitan areas in the world.

We have widely different religious beliefs, political philosophies and personal temperaments.

But we all share a common goal: We want to deliver the best services at the least possible cost to the people of Illinois.

To do that, and do it well, we cannot have one-man rule. We cannot have war between branches of government.

We shall have to do that which our Constitution mandates and that which is best for you, for me, and for the people of Illinois.

We shall have to be partners. As partners, we can agree that the future of our state is bright.

With belt-tightening and prudent fiscal management, the state can be solvent through the current fiscal year.

America is at peace. A long war has ended.

Let us take this occasion to remember together the citizens of Illinois who gave their lives in the war now mercifully over.

Let us resolve to end the bitterness which as divided us. Let us also resolve not to forget our veterans of Vietnam.

While we have a solid base on which to build, there is much to be done.

But my response to those needs will not be the traditional political approach of unveiling massive blueprints which promise to solve the great social problems of our time.

In fact, one of the lessons of the last decade was that government cannot do everything.

The idealistic programmers of the 1960s watched in anguish as the billions of dollars appropriated in Washington did not solve all the problems.

Hopes were raised and hopes were dashed. We learned, I believe, that spending alone is not the answer—that solutions involve much more than money.

They require the work and cooperation of those in government and those outside it.

I repeat, because it deserves repetition: Government cannot do everything.

We need to remind ourselves continually that America is great not simply because of our government but also because of our unique private enterprise system.

Granite City PRESS-RECORD

And the real greatness of America is our people.

We are, and must continue to be, a nation which prizes the worth, the dignity, the integrity of the individual, the citizen.

In recent years our state government has undergone vast expansion.

We have sponsored many new programs and discovered many new areas of concern.

Some of these programs are essential, I yield to no one in my concern for the problems which best us.

Discrimination continues and we must fight it vigorously.

Unemployment exists and government has a role in seeing that jobs are available for those who can work—and that economic help is available for those who cannot.

Substandard housing infects our communities; pollution poisons the environment. The state must persevere in the never-ending struggle to protect people from both.

I want a government which tackles these problems with determination and innovation. But innovation does not only mean creating new programs. It also means devising new ways to make existing programs more efficient.

It means we must take a good look, a hard look, at all programs to make sure they are indeed productive.

I want to undertake this inventory, this tough reappraisal, you see.

In the days since Jan. 8, I have begun my effort to apply the principles of efficiency and productivity to the departments and agencies that report to me.

I have been working hard on a no-nonsense budget. I want to see, for example, less middle-management in our mental institutions and more people involved in direct patient care.

I have begun the task of coping with the mammoth spending in public aid.

We can—we must—find ways to help those who need help without turning this program into a system of rote which crushes individualism and removes incentives.

I have issued—and will continue to issue—executive orders which have as their goal the improvement of departments and agencies under the governor.

It is exciting work. Making the day-to-day affairs of state government work better is properly the functions of the governor.

Of the many hats which I may wear, it is the one I expect to put on most often. This is the task I have looked forward to; this is the job I shall enjoy most.

As I have said before, I will make mistakes; I will stumble. But we will make progress.

The state's budget is, and has been for weeks, my major concern.

You will soon receive the product of that work.

We are taking a very tough position on eliminating waste and reallocating resources to programs which serve people.

Today, I can say this much about my budget.

The state's present sources of revenue are adequate to meet the needs of Illinois. There will be no tax increases and no additional taxes.

Holding the lines on taxes in belief will be the most important step we can take on the long road to restoring public confidence in government.

Indeed, there is reason to hope that if we do our work toughly and effectively, we may be able to provide tax relief for our overburdened taxpayers.

We must have the same concern for the taxpayers' dollar as we do for the problems which confront us.

It is a trust too often forgotten. What we spend is the taxpayers' money.

I would hope that this concern for the taxpayer will be a model for local governments all across this state.

During the two years that I was a candidate for governor, and now from the more than 20,000 letters which have come to my office since Inauguration Day, one thing above all others was most clear to me.

The people of this state are demanding economy from their local officials as much as they are demanding it from the governor and legislature in Springfield.

And the money provided from Springfield must be used prudently and wisely.

As I indicated earlier, I shall be concentrating on the executive branch of government.

But the job of making government work for people is not concentrating on the executive branch of government.

Historically, the legislature and the executive have been co-equal. The safeguard of our democracy was thought to lie in checks and balances.

That historical structure has been thrown out of balance. At the national level, for example, the executive branch has come to dominate Washington.

Power has become concentrated in the offices of the White House. Some critics say that Congress has received a message from too often acted only after it the President.

I do not want that imbalance in Springfield. I believe in legislative as well as executive initiative.

I would hope that you—under the leadership of capable, dedicated men on both sides of the aisle—will take up the knotty problems and solve them one at a time, hopefully not letting them all mount up until the end of the session.

But I stress that the procedures in the General Assembly are yours to decide—and rightfully so.

I will be available to consult. I will be accessible. I will work with your leadership.

At the same time, I will express my own views. I will be offering legislative suggestions. Those surely are prerogatives—indeed, responsibilities—of the chief executive.

There are a number of areas where there is need and opportunity for this kind of executive-legislative partnership. I would like to mention just a few today.

In most of these areas, legislation has already been proposed.

Personal Safety. We need a law—without loopholes—requiring criminal trials to be held within 60 days after arrest.

We must end the present system which too frequently keeps innocent people in jail and allows criminals to be out on bond for long periods of time, committing other crimes while they await trial for the first offense.

We need more realistic help for the front-line man in the war on crime—the uniformed, trained and professional law enforcement officer.

We need a professional probation system—and I will support the effort to create such a system which has already begun by members of the General Assembly.

Transportation. I will support legislation which provides that—after local resources are exhausted—state motor fuel tax funds can be used to finance public transportation throughout the state.

Education. We need more state support for primary and secondary education and a revised formula for state aid.

I also welcome the opportunity to work with you on initiatives to control waste in our educational spending.

Ethics. Strengthening of existing ethics legislation, particularly in the areas of economic disclosure and campaign financing.

Media Protection. All of us in public life have our moments of displeasure with the media. But let us never forget that it is an indispensable fourth branch of government.

For this reason, I find alarming the recent court-imposed limits on the rights of reporters. I want to see a law protecting them and their news sources.

Consumer Protection. You have started the effort in this area but we can do more.

A number of antiquated and poorly conceived laws now on the books that are unfair to the individual consumer should be eliminated.

There are other areas: Economic development, factory safety, equal rights, environmental protection, higher education, insurance. And this is not an exhaustive list.

This session, like others before it, will be a busy one.

As always, some issues will test us. But if we can respect our differences and forgive the honest mistakes which will inevitably occur, we will make progress in meeting the needs of Illinois.

When the early settlers were coming down the Mississippi to settle Illinois, they made soap and candles from bacon grease.

They built their flatboats so that when the journey was done they could break up their boats and use every scrap to build a home.

There was no room for waste in the lives of those early pioneers. There is no room for waste today.

We start this year at peace for the first time in almost ten years.

An agonizing era is at an end. Finally, all of our energy can be used to build.

Let us do it with a constant regard for the taxpayer.

Let us treat our resources—the taxpayers' dollars—as carefully as those pioneer boatmen treated their precious resources 150 years ago.

MUSIC MAKER THEME FOR CUB PACK SEVEN

"Music Makers" was the January theme of Cub Pack Seven of St. Joseph's Church and School. The monthly pack meeting was held at the school's pack room.

Cubmaster Andy Timko was in charge. Webelos, under the direction of the leader, Rich McCallister, led the pledge to the flag and the Lord's Prayer. A graduation ceremony was held for Gerand Drees, who advanced into the Webelos. His parents were called forward along with his den leader, Mrs. Myrna Geisler. Den Chief Bryant Snee, presented the Webelos colors and handbook and outlined the road to Boy Scouting.

Robert Mungovan was presented his Webelos aquanaut award, and David Kettelhut of Den Two received the denner braid and Richard Curtis the assistant denner braid.

A musical program featured Den Two boys, directed by Mrs. Geisler, in a production of the "Do-Re-Mi Musicians," complete with unusual instruments. Den Three scouts Donnie Hill, Chris Schutzenhofer and Keith Johnson, demonstrated rhythm instruments. The leader is Mrs. Betty Hill.

Cubmaster Timko announced that the pack's candy sale will be held in February and the pack will observe "Scout Sabbath" on Sunday, Feb. 11, when the boys attend the 9:30 a. m. Mass at St. Joseph's Catholic Church. It will receive the Parvuli Dei religious award during the service.

Plans were outlined for the unit to participate in a Scout Week window display as well as the Cub Scout Theme Fair and Scoutarama events.

The annual "blue and gold" banquet will take place Feb. 20 at 6 p. m. at the church hall. Special entertainment by a magician, Bill Apperson, is planned.

An audience participation game had the scouts applauding for their favorite singers, who were then awarded musical notes.

Den Two won the "cubby" award for parent attendance for the third month in a row, and in so doing will now retain the attendance banner for its den flag.

Refreshments were served by Mesdames Beverly Schutzenhofer, Helen Kettelhut, Mary Jane Moutria and Clare Mungovan.

Den Two sang "Good Night, Cub Scouts."

Mrs. Pearl Thomas, 2608 Hodges Ave., entertained with a dinner in her home Monday in honor of her niece and family, the Rev. and Mrs. Richard Bannoy and children Janet Sue, David, Ronald and Curtis, who are visiting here from Penrose, Calif. They have been staying in the home of Mrs. Janet Bannoy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hagen. Dinner guests were the honorees and Mr. and Mrs. Hagen and Mrs. Denise Wright.

VAUDEVILLE RECALLED
BY MARSHALL CUB PACK

Handmade instruments utilizing a musical instrument theme highlighted "vaudeville days" at a monthly meeting of Cub Pack 17 Tuesday at Marshall School.

Plans were made for the annual blue and gold banquet. The pack, sponsored by the PTA, opened the program with a flag presentation by Den Two, led by Mrs. Joyce Wilson. Cubmaster Bill Johnson announced that the banquet will be held in the school gymnasium on Feb. 8 at 6:30 p. m. Theme will be "famous people."

Den Two entertained the audience with its version of the vaudeville era.

During the awards presentation, Mrs. Nancy Wickham, advancement chairman, presented a bobcat pin to Gregory Reeves. The cubby award was won by the Webelos den, led by Bill Osborn.

The audience was divided into eight groups for a story entitled "The Indian Hunter," narrated by Louis Rohlfing. As the story unfolded, the audience gave verbal responses.

Den Two closed the program by retiring the colors, and the Webelos den served refreshments.

Strong Case Can Be Made for Omitting Pointless 'Impact Statement' Delaying the Long-Awaited Broadway Underpass

Residents of Venice, the Quad-Cities and a wide surrounding region are understandably disturbed and frustrated by word that an environmental impact statement will cause a long delay in the Broadway underpass project.

Long years have passed during the 1960s and 1970s as the City of Venice amassed construction funds, perfected its plans, arranged for right-of-way and then obtained completion of a traffic outlet which runs beneath the railroad tracks at a point a short distance north of the present Broadway auto-rail crossing.

A grade separation has been needed for many years due to the hazards. From personal experience in covering the news, we are aware of a number of fatal accidents at the Broadway crossing.

The underpass also has been long awaited due to the constant vehicular traffic delays, including fire engines racing toward conflagrations and ambulances speeding to rush ill and injured people to hospitals.

Now, at long last, it was determined, during 1972 that "all the ducks were

Municipal or Privately-Owned Production Center Should Be Created, Rather Than Letting Depot Buildings Deteriorate

In a listing of "challenges of 1973," we included as a major goal:

Prompt utilization of the many well-built, large and versatile buildings at the Granite City Army Installation, by the government or by private enterprise through lease or purchase.

With this in mind, it was heartening to learn from the Department of Defense, in an exclusive report by the Press-Record, that portions of the base now being used for housing and army personnel support activities would be made available for civilian use.

It will not happen overnight; but there is a real prospect that, by this fall, the General Services Administration will be in a position to consider proposals on new uses for the warehouse buildings.

Many of the storage facilities are so constructed that they could be converted to offices or a number of other uses.

The point is that these buildings are outstanding assets but only if put to

Johnson Legacy-Legislative Program With Lasting Impact on Nation

Lyndon Baines Johnson, the 36th president of the United States, is dead at 64. For the second time in less than a month, the nation was confronted with the death of a former president and towering figure of our political past.

Just as the passing of the late Harry S. Truman brought into new perspective the stature of a president whose full measure had not been taken when he left the White House, so must American now seek to sort out the pluses and minuses of another who stood at the pinnacle of power.

Few statesmen ever possessed the credentials which Mr. Johnson brought to the presidency on that dark day in Dallas in 1963.

He had been a representative, a senator, majority leader and vice-president. He was buoyed by an outpouring of support for the task before him.

Yet there can be little doubt that Mr. Johnson suffered from the White House. Richard Nixon in 1969 with a sense of personal frustration and disappointment.

He had tried to establish new rapport, confidence and empathy between the Executive and the people, but instead had created a "credibility gap."

He had sought peace in the world, but was forced to turn the Vietnam problem over to his successor farther from solution than when he had found it.

He sought to build a "great society" in America, but left office with that term in disrepute.

It can be hoped that these factors on the scale do not place Mr. Johnson of our history which his achievements so clearly earned him.

He left a nation more aware than ever before of America's role of leadership in the world.

He put a new emphasis on the importance of education in our society.

He made Americans acutely aware of poverty and injustice in their midst, and his administration saw the adoption of the most far-reaching civil rights legislation in our history.

Mr. Johnson's approach to politics was both a weakness and a strength.

He was an acknowledged master of the subtle mechanism which makes the wheels of government go round.

His sense of responsibility was evident in the constructive role he played as State majority leader when a Republican president, Dwight Eisenhower, was dealing with a Congress under Democratic control.

Lyndon Johnson bore the brunt of the presidential fire on shoulders that had been broadened in the rough and tumble school of politics.

He was an impressive Texan who was at once ebullient and sober, confident and insecure, boastful and humble, brash and cautious.

Yet he was always, for all men everywhere, a classic portrait of the American dream: a man born in humble circumstances.

He was a man who, by his energy, initiative, resourcefulness and persistence rose to the most important position his country can offer: that of president.

His influence on the nation he loved is marked indelibly in the wealth of social programs he nurtured during his decade on the national scene.

There is little question of Mr. Johnson's effectiveness as Senate majority leader during the Eisenhower years.

Controversy followed the tall Texan naturally as he rose to a position of power in the Senate and finally to the nation's highest office.

It swirled about him as he took the presidential oath on an Air Force plane following the tragic death of John F. Kennedy in Dallas and it mounted as the war dragged on in Vietnam.

Still, in his last campaign in 1964, he rolled up his greatest vote margin in history.

Few could have predicted that at that moment of triumph that four years later he would remove himself from the political arena that had been his life for 40 years.

The decision was in response to pressures within his own divided party over the conduct of the war he had inherited.

Unable to satisfy either those who insisted on total victory or those who advocated abject withdrawal, he announced in early 1968 that he would neither "seek nor accept" the Democratic nomination for another term.

He believed that his tortuous decision would further the cause of international peace and reduce domestic tensions.

Without the Vietnam war, Mr. Johnson's administration would have been one of comparative calm and general acquiescence.

He has been credited with accomplishing more for the cause of civil rights than any other president.

His record of numbers of bills involving social legislation poured across his desk. His "war on poverty" became a political byword.

There is little question of Mr. Johnson's effectiveness as Senate majority leader during the Eisenhower years.

Those qualities will be remembered far longer than the petty bickering of lesser men who followed him which marred his years in Washington.

Copley News Service

At last, at long last, the war in Vietnam is over for the United States.

It is a great moment for President Nixon as well as for the nation.

For four years, the President has had the courage to adhere to his convictions that the peace in Vietnam should be just and honorable.

He rejected often the fierce pressures for a quick and easy end. He held on for the "right kind of peace."

Because the President has had the courage of his convictions we may rest assured that the cease-fire agreement he reached will guarantee the unequivocal safety of our troops, the return of all prisoners of war and an accounting of all those missing in action.

These are our first priorities. By the same token, the Administration's insistence that every sentence in the treaty must be exactly right offers hope to the South Vietnamese people that their chances for freedom are as good as the United States can arrange under the circumstances.

Now, the first order of business for the people of the United States is to give the administration the support that it will need to bring the men and prisoners home, assimilate them into our everyday life, and adjust to an economy that does not contemplate the support to American forces in Vietnam.

The second domestic order of business is to heal

A Lesson Learned in Vietnam-In War, Fight to Win

Whatever wounds the war in Vietnam has inflicted on us, we can begin by asking ourselves whether the result really is any point in torturing ourselves about our role in that war.

After all, we must remember that four American presidents of both major political parties have seen the value of an enclave of freedom in Southeast Asia.

The history is plain. Communist North Vietnam coveted the entire nation and deliberately set out in 1946 to win it by force.

South Vietnam, guided by the flickering candle of freedom, fought desperately for more than a quarter of a century for its right to self-determination.

The first American combat troops were committed to Vietnam in 1953, and that was when the United States also made its biggest mistake of the war. We sent our men into battle without a full commitment to assure a military victory and without the national will to win the war.

This is not the stuff of which victories are made, and we pray that the lesson is not lost on coming generations of Americans.

Despite its faint heart, the United States has done relatively well.

While we did not win the war, we did not lose it either.

South Vietnam has a fighting chance to stand on its own feet.

Its government is stable and accepted by the people; South Vietnamese troops have been tested in battle and have withstood the heat of the crucible.

The South will, of course, have to continue to defend itself.

North Vietnam probably will have more than 100,000 well-armed and supplied troops in the South after the United States leaves, and its desire to control the entire peninsula is unchanged.

We probably will continue to supply the arms that South Vietnam will need in the continuing battle against the Communists.

Additionally, we could be a force for freedom through our assistance in the reconstruction of all of Indochina.

Realistically, we must acknowledge that the document that the United States signed in Paris undoubtedly is far less than ideal.

Like Korea, Vietnam was a war whose strategies, and even its tactics, were often guided by political circumstance rather than by military necessity.

The phrase "No more Vietnams" will resound around our country.

We endorse those words most sincerely hoping that they mean to every American, "When you go to war, fight to win."

The 'Second Inaugural' Controversy

The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, which performs here each summer at the Mississippi River Festival, is "making waves" in more ways than one as it visits New York to perform at Carnegie Hall this evening.

In addition to showing its instrumental expertise through its annual East Coast tour, the Symphony has chosen to present at Carnegie the controversial work, "A Lincoln Address," composed by Vincent Persichetti.

The music was written at the request of the 1973 inaugural committee for the President's inaugural concert on Jan. 18.

It then was deleted from the program by the same committee, which apparently believed that the work sought to convey a political message adverse to Pres. Nixon's effort to achieve peace, an attainment he was to announce three days after his second inauguration.

"A Lincoln Address" was given its world premier performance at St. Louis Symphony subscription concerts Jan. 25 and Jan. 27 in Powell Hall.

It is this same presentation which is being repeated tonight in New York.

William Warfield, baritone, will narrate the composition, which takes its text from Abraham Lincoln's second inaugural address, delivered on March 4, 1865.

Music Director and Conductor Walter Susskind will conduct the concert, which also includes Mahler's "Kindertotenlieder," featuring mezzo-soprano Janet Baker, Dvorak's Slavonic Dances, Opus 46 and Mozart's Symphony No. 38, "Prague."

The 15-minute composition for full orchestra and narrator was written during two weeks of intense work following the request of the inaugural committee in late December.

Persichetti based "A Lincoln Address" on music from his "Hymns and Responses" and Seventh Symphony, Opus 80, "Liturgical."

The "Liturgical" Symphony was originally commissioned to commemorate the 80th anniversary of the St. Louis Symphony and was first heard at the orchestra's subscription concert on Oct. 24-25, 1959, under the direction of Edward van Remortel.

The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra tour opened in Washington's Kennedy Center on Monday evening.

"A Lincoln Address" will not be presented in Washington at this time because the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra wants to perform it on its own terms, rather than on its political merit," Peter Pastreich, executive director of the St. Louis Symphony, commented.

"We feel that performing the controversial work in Washington's capital only a week after President Nixon's inauguration would detract from the musical and research programs has been made possible by financial grants from the American Newspaper Publishers Association, the National Association of Broadcasters and the three major broadcasting networks."

The Freedom of Information Center at the University of Missouri-Columbia is the world's at Kennedy Center next year."

It is interesting to note a parallel between the Civil War, as Lincoln saw it, and the Vietnam War—

"Neither party expected for the war the magnitude or the duration which it has already attained."

The text of Lincoln's second inaugural address follows:

"Fellow countrymen: Now, at the expiration of four years, during which public declarations have been constantly called forth on every point and phase of the great contest which still absorbs the attention and engrosses the energies of the nation, little that is new could be presented. With high hope for the future, no prediction in regard to it is ventured."

"On the occasion corresponding to this four years ago, all thoughts were anxiously directed to an impending civil war. All dreaded it—all sought to avert it."

"While the inaugural address was being delivered from this place, devoted altogether to saving the union without war, insurgent agents were in the city seeking to destroy it without war—seeking to dissolve the union, and divide effects, by negotiation."

"Both parties deprecated war. But one of them would make war rather than let the nation survive. And the other would accept war rather than let it perish."

"And the war came."

"Neither party expected for the war the magnitude or the duration which it has already attained."

"Neither anticipated that the cause of the conflict might cease and yet leave us a more bitter enemy of each other. Each looked for an easier triumph, and a result less fundamental and astounding."

"Both read the same Bible, and pray to the same God; and each invokes His aid against the other."

"It may seem strange that any men should dare to ask a just God's assistance in wringing their bread from the sweat of other men's faces; but let us judge not, that we be not judged. And the prayers of both could not be answered; that of neither has been answered fully."

"The Almighty has his own purposes: 'We unto the world because of offenses! For it must needs be that offenses come; but we do not make them; but we are made the subjects of them.'"

"This mighty scourge of war may speedily pass away. Yet, if God wills that it continue until all the wealth piled by the bondsmen's 250 years of unrequited toil shall be exhausted, and all the dead have been drawn by the lash shall be paid by another drawn with the sword, as was said three times and years ago, so still it must be said:

"The judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether."

"With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds; to care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow, and his orphan, to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace."

"A just and a lasting peace among ourselves, and with all nations."

OUR GREAT COUNTRY DESERVES OUR LOYALTY

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to the letter in The Forum on Jan. 25 titled, "Never Again Launch Destructive Crusade." It makes me question my stomach.

Even a flock of geese will choose a leader. Americans, and I repeat Americans, choose a leader in the last election by a majority vote.

The gentleman who wrote realizes that this great country has commitments.

I do not like this war, or any other war, as far as that goes. I wonder where would be if it were not for the good, red-blooded, all colors, American boy who stood up against barbarism during our soon-to-be 200-year history.

I have reason to believe that the United States is the greatest country in the world. We were a little slow in the blanket bombing, which, in my humble opinion, hastened the ending.

Those countries whom we have fought would gouge our eyes out for information to overthrow this government.

Mister, don't forget, North Vietnam has spread terror throughout Southeast Asia. Nobody loves a rich neighbor, just their money; but what other rich neighbor in the world has helped deprived countries like the U.S.A.?

A billboard I saw in St. Louis the other day described it: "If you registered and voted, you've done your thing; now button up."

I say to that writer, "If you do not like what our leaders do, whom a majority (as silent as they are) placed in that high office, then get out. This country does not need your kind."

PRESS ESSENTIAL TO PRESERVE DEMOCRACY

To the Editor:

For many years, reporters, editors and broad-casters are expressing serious apprehensions about the actual freedom of the press, which the Constitution endeavors to preserve. I was gratified to learn of significant movements to expand and strengthen the University of Missouri's Freedom of Information Foundation.

The important objective of this foundation is preservation of the free flow of information on behalf of the public's right to know.

It was founded in 1959 and is the nation's only agency working on behalf of the public that essential principle of a democratic government—a free press.

The appointment by the foundation of a new president, Dr. Dwight E. Sargeant, curator of the Nieman Foundation at the University of Missouri for eight years, accompanies the FOI expansion.

In addition, the foundation has just announced that a major expansion of the center's educational and research programs has been made possible by financial grants from the American Newspaper Publishers Association, the National Association of Broadcasters and the three major broadcasting networks.

N&W Railroad Income Up 17% During 1972

The Norfolk and Western Railway Co. has reported 1972 income of $89.8 million, or $8.47 a primary share — the carrier's highest since 1968 — before extraordinary charges. Last year's income was up 17% from $77.7 million, or $7.27 a share in 1971.

Operating revenues for the year were $795 million, compared with $727.6 million in 1971. Operating expenses were $665.8 million, compared with $537.6 million a year earlier.

An extraordinary charge of $57.7 million against 1972 earnings was announced by the company in June as provision for the decline in investments in its wholly owned subsidiary, Dereco, Inc., and Erie Lackawanna Railway Co. The latter went into reorganization June 26.

President John P. Fishwick told members of the financial community this morning that N&W's cash and temporary investments at the close of business Dec. 31 totaled $102.5 million.

This compared with $89.7 million at the end of 1971. The company's working capital was $71.1 million against $49.9 million Dec. 31, 1971. Fishwick also pointed out that long-term debt of the N&W, outstanding at the close of 1972, was $7.8 million less than it had been at year-end 1971. This was the first year-to-year net reduction in long-term debt since 1961.

Three Quad-Cityans Among Retirees at GC Steel Co.

John Huck of Granite City headed a list of six employees retiring from Granite City Steel Co. within the past few weeks. Huck's 39 years of service topped the list, which included two others from the Quad-Cities.

Huck lives at 3225 Colgate Ave., Other Quad-Cityans retiring were Dorothy Lionberger of 1543 Third St., Madison, and Elbert Lipe, 3717 Ruth Drive, Granite City.

Huck retired as superintendent of Utilities for the company. He began his GCS career as an assistant turbine plant engineer and has been Utilities superintendent since 1963. He and his wife, Dolores, have one daughter and four grandchildren.

Mrs. Lionberger was a cost clerk with Granite City Steel and had 23 years of continuous service with the company. She and her husband, Marion, have three daughters and three grand-children.

Lipe, a North Plant employee, retired on disability at age 45 after 26 years with that department. He and his wife, Betty, have a son and two daughters.

Three retirees living in other communities included Franklin Tift of Greenville, Jimmie Courtney of Edwardsville and Albert Winters of East St. Louis.

Tift's retirement also was on disability pension. He is 58 and spent more than 29 years with GCS, starting in the old Tin House.

Courtney, who had been off work some time because of illness, retired after 27 years of service with the company. He was a blast furnace scale car operator. Courtney and his wife, Cleona, live on Route 38, Edwardsville. They have seven sons, three daughters and 17 grandchildren, and one of the sons, George, also is a Granite City Steel employee.

Winters, 53, also retires on disability as a blast furnace bricklayer helper after almost 17 years of service with Granite City Steel. He started as blast furnace laborer. He and his wife, Ida Mae, who lives in East St. Louis, have one son.

Lower Auto Rates for Non-Smoking Drivers

Are non-smokers better drivers than smokers? At least one company thinks so and is offering a study by the research department of the Farmers Insurance Group in Granite City.

He said that this insurance concept was developed following a study by the research department of the Farmers Insurance Group which showed that non-smokers have significantly lower accident frequency rates than smokers.

The Farmers Insurance Group will offer a special discount package policy to adult non-smokers, Maddox said.

The new package will include bodily injury, property damage, medical and collision coverages with rates up to 25% less than those of other companies.

The policy also includes comprehensive and uninsured motorist coverage. The company also was one of the pioneers in offering lower life insurance rates to non-smokers.

Wide Impact of Fuel Shortages

"Curtbacks are industrial production as a result of shortages of natural gas, oil, coal and electricity not only disrupt manufacturing schedules but also reduce the incomes of industrial workers and hamper sales of U. S. goods abroad," a spokesman for the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association has observed.

C. A. Hood, chairman of GAMA's industrial gas equipment division, said that periodic shortages of energy are becoming more serious each year.

During the past summer, he pointed out, temporary "brown-outs" and other curtailments of energy supply were imposed in a number of cities throughout the nation.

"Generally," he said, "the first to feel the curtailments are local industrial plants."

"Unless the plant is able to switch over to an alternate system during an energy curtailment, it means either a reduction in production schedules or a shutdown of the plant until full operations can be restored."

"This is most serious for plants that utilize a single fuel system. Plants that have a dual-fuel capability and can switch to another fuel, such as L-P-gas for plants that utilize natural gas," the industry spokesman said, "are better able to avoid such disruptions."

"But there are some industrial processes that do not have the flexibility to use dual-fuel systems," Hood pointed out. "There are certain processes that require natural gas and can use no substitute."

"Industries in this category should be given a high priority in allocating supplies during periods of shortage," he urged.

Hood, manager of Honeywell's flame safeguard market, pointed out that industrial reduction or full stoppages of production reduce sales and result in delays in delivery schedules.

This causes a reduction in employment and weekly wages of production workers at plants, with a corresponding drop in spending at neighborhood grocery and department stores.

"Fuel shortages also invariably mean that a production facility cannot meet the date when goods were scheduled to be shipped to foreign markets, and this frequently results in loss of the sale. Consequently, the nation's balance of payments deficit becomes even more serious."

"National and state government agencies and public utilities across the nation are working to prevent minimize future fuel curtailments," Hood said, "but the nation's demand for energy is rising and supply is falling behind demand."

"Experts in the fuel industries believe that the only long-range solution to the problem is the development of a national energy policy which will encourage conservation, stimulate exploration to find new supplies, and accelerate research and development of new energy sources."

Worst Enemies of U.S. Are In Senate, Professor Says

Two political scientists at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville have widely differing views of the implications of the Vietnam cease-fire.

Professor Kurt Glaser and assistant professor William R. Feeney are both specialists in international relations on the government faculty at SIUE.

Feeney thinks the announced cease-fire means the Nixon administration believes it has found a way to end American involvement in the war. "We've seen this talk of peace once before, just before the election."

"The fact that it did not transpire probably means peace is more likely this time. You can only cry wolf so often."

"Another letdown would probably provoke a drastic reaction, particularly on the part of Congress."

Glaser is also concerned about congressional reaction, although his analysis differs from Feeney's. "The worst enemies of the United States are not in Hanoi," Glaser said, "but in the U. S. Senate."

Glaser said he declined to identify any individual senators.

"Any action which has the effect of hampering the President in his ability to conduct a difficult negotiation by suggesting that he does not have a unified country behind him, prolongs the war and costs American lives."

Glaser said he believed the present situation makes a constitutional crisis a possibility. "Congressional action in carrying out the foreign policy programs for which he was elected may lead to a serious constitutional crisis," Glaser said.

Feeney does not believe Congress can do very much. "The fact is that the President can veto legislation cutting off funds for the war, for example," he said, "and I don't think the Congress could override that veto. Besides, there's already a lot of money in the pipeline."

"As Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield pointed out, the Congress realizes they don't have that kind of authority," Feeney said. He believes the present concentration of power in the hands of the executive is detrimental to the constitutional system of checks and balances.

"There is a terrible overbalance of power in the executive branch," Feeney said, "and liberals as well as conservatives recognize that the system works best" ### when checks and balances work.

"The longer the war in Vietnam goes on," he said, "the more conservative is the effect of the overbalance of power on the American system."

Glaser's criticism of the executive branch is based on a different analysis of the situation. "The Nixon administration persists in liberal projectionism in the belief that everybody else must be a Western liberal at heart, which unfortunately isn't so," he said.

"Removing the bombing in the hope of progress will not have that effect, despite what other liberal projectionists say about it," Glaser said.

"The moral impulses under a system of totalitarianism to use a metaphor, are in reverse," Glaser said. "You get the opposite reaction from what you would expect."

"The main concern I have," Glaser said, "is what makes people think the Communists will keep a peace agreement, if they have any opportunity to violate it? The box score of Communist 'peace agreements' is such that any baseball Cardinal batter with such a low average, would be sent back to the farm team," he said.

Candidates Endorse Pontoon Village Hall

Plans for a new village hall for Pontoon Beach were unanimously endorsed this week by the Village Improvement Association (VIP) and the VIP candidates for election to the Village Board this April, headed by Floyd David Moss.

A spokesman for the group said Tuesday that if members of the VIP ticket "in 1980, head leasing a village hall, and if elected we will follow through with the idea of the present village board to purchase the building."

A lease is to be signed by the village for the former Jim Green Construction Co. office, 3839 Lake Drive, after attorneys for Illini Federal Savings & Loan Association prepare the document and an attorney for the village reviews it.

A second vote by the village board members may be sought before the lease is signed. The lease will cost $450 per month for a one-year period starting Feb. 1. After the year, the village hopes to purchase the building for about $30,000, using federal revenue sharing funds.

Dr. Lepper New State Health Planning Head

Gov. Dan Walker during the weekend announced appointment of Dr. Mark H. Lepper, executive vice-president of professional and academic affairs for Rush Presbyterian St. Luke's Medical Center, as director of the state comprehensive health planning agency and health services coordinator for the governor's office.

Dr. Lepper succeeds Dr. Albert Snook in both positions. As director of health planning, Dr. Lepper will receive $35,000 annually.

"We conducted a national search for someone of stature to fill these posts. Many names were suggested, many persons were interviewed. Some were very good."

"But I was continually being drawn back to the name of Dr. Lepper. Regardless of philosophies about health service and how to improve its delivery to the people, the name invariably suggested first was that of Dr. Lepper," the governor commented.

"Interestingly enough, I was also told that I could never convince him to come into state government. Not only was obtaining Dr. Lepper's service a challenge, it was necessary, I felt he was the only man for the job."

"I worked very hard to get Dr. Lepper and I am very proud that we did get him."

"I know that with him in charge we will be able to recruit a top staff of young doctors and experts whose only concern is the better delivery of health care to the people of the state. He will help generate the kind of excitement I spoke about during my campaign for governor."

"The scope of the problem in health delivery is best expressed in the fact that the state government which said there are 11 state agencies involved in health and social services assistance, advised by 70 committees."

"The problem of delivering health services to all our citizens is one of the most difficult we face. It must and will have a top priority in my administration."

"I can say from firsthand knowledge that the delivery of health services in Illinois is inadequate."

"Illinois has simply lagged behind the other states. I expect to see us in the forefront, with Dr. Lepper leading the way."

"He coauthored a report for the Chicago Board of Health which led to establishment of federally funded, community-owned health care centers in the inner city."

"I know Dr. Lepper will provide the bold and innovative leadership that is reflected in that report."

"Much as I wanted him, I felt it would be unfair to ask him to take a major cut in his income in order to serve the people of Illinois."

"Consequently, I helped arrange for Dr. Lepper to continue as research consultant and adviser at Rush Medical School, where he has been dean. In that post, he will receive $27,000 from the school, which is privately endowed."

"Without this added compensation, I doubt that we could have gotten his services."

"Dr. Lepper has assured me, and I am confident, that he will be able to handle his assignments."

"Both the state of Illinois and Rush Medical School require four years in the Air Force."

Walker pointed out that there is a precedent in Illinois for such added compensation.

The candy will be sold door-to-door by members of the Concerned Parents and Citizens group to raise funds for the group's legal fight against proposed busing in the Madison School District.

CLYDE J. DONOVAN New District Boy Scout Executive Hired by Board

By WALTER STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer

Clyde J. Donovan was hired as a district scout executive for the Cahokia Mount Council, Boy Scouts of America, by action of the executive board at its January meeting.

Donovan will serve the Illinois District, which includes the Collinsville and Edwardsville areas. He replaces Robert Winschiet who resigned in December to accept a position with the St. Louis area Boy Scouts.

His career, his wife Vicki Lynn, and their 4-year-old daughter, Virginia Marie, will live in Collinsville.

He graduated with a bachelor's degree in psychology from Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville and formerly served for four years in the Air Force.

As a boy he was active in the Boy Scouts, Boy Scouting and Exploring, and is a Brotherhood member of the Cahokia Lodge, Order of the Arrow, Scouting's national honor camping society. Donovan currently is Scoutmaster of Troop 77 sponsored by the Collinsville Kiwanis Club.

According to William Monical, council scout executive, Donovan will attend the National Council executive training school in June at Schiff Scout Reservation.

Melvin Gillie, president of the local Boy Scout Council reviewed with the board members, suggestions he received from unit leaders at "fire-side chats" he has been holding throughout the council.

Gillie, who prior to being elected president in December was chairman of the council office building committee, appointed Robert Bastilla of Highline as the new committee chairman.

Other members of the building committee are H. D. Kilduff and Dr. Thomas Layloff, both of Granite City, and Charles Schmidt of Edwardsville.

The board previewed a new Camp Sunnyside promotion side presentation. W. F. "Mick" Strang of Granite City, council camping chairman, introduced J. Richard Hooks of Venice, camp director, and Terry Toth, Granite City, camp promotion chairman for the Cahokia Lodge, Order of the Arrow, who developed and recorded the presentation.

School Busing Problem is Back in General Assembly

Copley News Service

Springfield — The problem of school busing might hit the 78th General Assembly as it did two years ago.

Sen. Don A. Moore, R-Mid-Mo., has introduced another bill in the Senate which is very near the one he sponsored in the House in the 77th General Assembly. The new bill, like the old one, is aimed at busing of school children.

Moore got the first bill through the House, but in the Senate the bill met defeat. The Senate passed the bill with two votes over the needed 59.

Basically, the bill which Moore has introduced this time is identical to the first bill. But he has added in the new bill, "No pupil shall be assigned to any such school in order to overcome racial imbalances."

Opponents to the legislation in the last session maintained the bill in effect would topple the present law, which has become known as the Armstrong Act.

Under that law, school boards when redrawing new districts are to take into consideration the prevention of segregation and elimination of separation of children in public school busing.

LOGAN CUB SCOUTS Cub Pack Four of Logan Club met at the school.

The meeting opening with the pledge to the flag, and awards were presented by Wayne Williams.

Those winning awards were Tony Hicks, two silver arrows; Mike Moore, one-year pin; silver arrow and boy-power patch; Steve Candler, Tom Lewis and Joey Kuehnel, web badges; and Mike Adams, bobcat pin.

Webelos winning awards were Geoff and Greg Wolford, geologist and athlete awards.

The 1973 blue and gold banquet was set for Feb. 20 at the school.

Songs were sung by Den Two, led by Mrs. Judy Miller; mother. The boys used musical instruments they had made.

The Webelos also sang and used their musical instruments.

Refreshments were served by the Webelos den.

board Wade James, Madison assistant superintendent of schools who will work with the camping and activities committees of the council.

The board elected Robert M. Edmonds, assistant to the president of Granite City Steel Co. as a member of the board.

The meeting was opened with invocation by Dr. George T. Wilkins Sr. and was presided over by Gillie.

Dr. Layloff said that a board members planning to attend the Scout Appreciation dinner would purchase their tickets immediately as the dinner will be limited to the first 375 persons buying tickets.

The appreciation dinner will be held Feb. 8 at the Trinity Lutheran School in Edwardsville.

Funding for Walkways, Bikeways Is Proposed

Sen. Sam M. Vadalabene (D, 56th Dist.), has introduced a bill to set aside one per cent of road fund expenditures in Illinois for walkways and bikeways.

"The main concern behind this bill is to ensure the safety of children going to and from school," Vadalabene said. "This was the top priority of the highly regarded Oregon Bicycle Act of 1971, upon which my legislation is based."

"This bill will not benefit bicyclists exclusively, however. Hiking enthusiasts, from Gov. Daniel Walker on down, should welcome it, along with environmentalists who want to supplement the automobile with some viable transportation alternatives."

"At a time when we are concerned about noise and air pollution, depletion of energy reserves, and the high cost of living, the bike is a source of transportation — and healthful exercise — that we would be foolish to overlook."

"Some federal highway matching money is available to states for use as bicycle routes. But the states have to take the initiative."

Regional planners are being asked to include such pathways as part of areawide transportation plans.

Vadalabene on Three Senate Committees

Senator Sam M. Vadalabene, (D-Edwardsville), has been named to serve on three committees in the Senate during the 78th General Assembly of 1973-74.

Under appointments made by Minority Leader Cecil A. ParTEE, Vadalabene will assume membership on the Appropriations, Transportation and Public Utilities, and the Elections and Reapportionment Committees.

In addition, Vadalabene has been designated as the minority spokesman on the Elections and Reapportionment Committee.

"Senator Sam Vadalabene is very capable and hardworking, as he demonstrated in 1971 and 1972 during the 77th General Assembly. This is why I selected him to be Democratic spokesman for one of the 14 committees that the Senate will operate under," ParTEE commented.

"It's quite an honor to speak for your party on a committee," Vadalabene said. "So I intend to do everything I can to justify the confidence the Democratic leadership has placed in me by this appointment."

"Committee work doesn't have the glamor and publicity that floor action and debate has, but many important decisions and discussions go on in committee. That's the only way a large body like the Senate can get its work done."

"I'm also pleased to have the chance to keep a close eye on the purse strings in the Appropriations Committee. The voters made it very clear that they want State Government to run a tight ship; the budget will get a very close look."

"I want to be sure that the pressing needs of the Illinois metropolitan area are being adequately dealt with," Vadalabene concluded.

Free Methodists To Aid Refugees

Free Methodist Churches throughout the world will observe "Compassion Month" during February in an effort to aid the poor, sick, refugees and disadvantaged, it was announced locally this week.

The Central Free Methodist Church, 22nd and State streets, will join those in other parts of the world by holding special services Sunday, when "compassion banks" will be distributed to the members. C. Norman Stavelly, Sunday school superintendent, will be in charge of the project.

Congregation members will be asked to return the offerings on March 4, when the Rev. Eugene Stevenson is scheduled to deliver the compassion message, Stavelly said.

"Together We Care" is the theme for February. Special attention will be given to thousands of refugees from Burundi, who have suffered through the recent political turmoil. Stavelly explained. Church members will prepare kits for the Burundi refugees and hygiene kits for mountain tribes people of Taiwan, as well as refugees in Zaire and Rwanda.

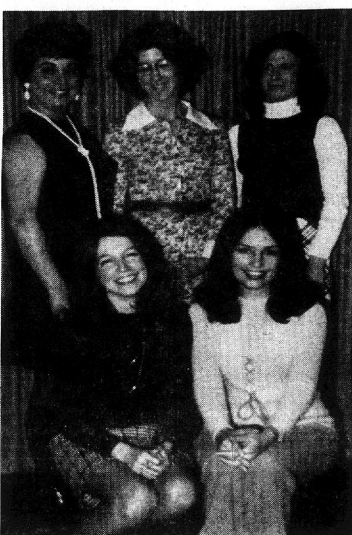

Compassion sharing will support 24 hospitals and clinics by providing medicine and equipment, food, salaries for doctors and nurses and relief ministries around the world, it was noted.

Children at the local church also will present a special program directed by the Junior Missionary Society superintendent, Mrs. Judy Pratt, at 10:30 a.m. Feb. 18.

Charles M. Hacke, brother of the groom, served as best man. Both the bride and groom attended Granite City High School.

Mr. Hacke, a 1969 graduate, is a musician and presently is appearing with a band in the St. Louis area.

The newly married couple is temporarily residing at 26 Riviera Drive.

Choir Festival Services Sunday

Key 73, the nationwide evangelism efforts of the Protestant and Roman Catholic churches, will be celebrated with two duplicate Choir Festivals Sunday, beginning at 7 p.m.

One Festival Service will be held at the First Assembly of God Church, 24th Street and Grand Avenue and the other service will take place at the Nameki United Methodist Church, Ponson Road and Primrose Ave.

Each service will be identical except for the choirs from participating area churches. At the festival at First Assembly of God, in addition to the choir from the host church, other musical groups will be represented by Sacred Heart Roman Catholic, Madison United Presbyterian, Madison United Methodist, St. Peter United Church of Christ, Niedringhaus United Methodist, Trinity United Methodist and First United Presbyterian.

Nameki United Methodist Church, in addition to its choir, will have groups from St. Elizabeth Roman Catholic, Mitchell United Presbyterian, St. John United Church of Christ, Central Free Methodist and the Salvation Army.

The Rev. Alan Groff, pastor at First Assembly of God Church will serve as liturgist at his church, and the Rev. Roy Baugh from Niedringhaus United Methodist will bring the Key 73 emphasis message.

Plans for the two Choir Festivals were made by a special committee of the Quad-Cities Ministerial Association working on Key 73 in this area. Chairmen are Rev. Fester, the Rev. Gene Stevenson, Central Free Methodist, and the Rev. Robert Kettelhut, St. Peter United Church of Christ. The Rev. Dr. Paul Surbey is general chairman for Key 73 for the Quad-Cities area.

Key 73 events and activities will take place throughout the year in many different ways to call both members and non-members to a renewed interest in the life and mission of the Christian church, Rev. Surbey said.

Quad-City area residents are invited to attend the special services. Ample parking is available at both locations.

Cabinet Members Talented But Powers May Be Limited

By JAMES CARY
Copley News Service
Washington — President Nixon has brought together a diverse array of 11 able and talented men to form the Cabinet for his second administration, but there is considerable doubt they will be permitted to use those abilities fully.

Not only will they be fighting an historic trend toward decline in the Cabinet as a policy-making body, but they will be up against a relatively new trend to consolidate control over domestic affairs in the White House.

The pattern now emerging points toward an attempt to emulate on the domestic side the admittedly impressive accomplishments in foreign affairs.

And control over foreign affairs is now largely centered in the National Security Council operating in the White House under the tight control and guidance of Dr. Henry Kissinger and the over-all direction of the President.

This presents a serious problem, however, for there is no one in the executive department who is recognized as having the presumably unprecedented abilities that would be required to direct the complex and diverse tides of domestic affairs from a command post in the executive mansion.

Not even the President, who has demonstrated a surprising capacity for change, insight and pragmatism in handling foreign relations, has indicated he has organized concepts on the domestic side that reach beyond the rather basic need to fight inflation, stimulate trade, revitalize the economy and maintain an adequate defense.

Most certainly there is no visible indication that the two White House staff members in whom Nixon has placed the greatest trust — domestic council chief John Ehrlichman and chief of staff H. R. Haldeman — have any such capability.

Both have proved themselves tough, loyal and capable managers. But to all outward appearances they have a narrow vision of social change, are lacking in historical perspective, show little capacity for examining new ideas and have very little feel for the problems of poverty, energy, environment, congressional reform, the urban crisis and the basic "fair play" philosophy of the nation.

In the political vernacular of Washington they are considered to epitomize, perhaps unfairly, what is frequently called the "White House Mafia" or the "Neanderthal strain" in the administration.

One cabinet member who might come closest to matching the capacities to Kissinger is George Shultz, secretary of the Treasury and head of a newly formed Cabinet-level Council on Economic Policy. Shultz has been given the gargantuan task of pulling together in one organized body of thought and action all of the diverse threads of U. S. economic policy that were formerly scattered among the departments of state, commerce, defense, Treasury, the President's Council of Economic Advisors and the Office of Management and Budget.

It should be pointed out, however, that Shultz' massive new power is not centered in Treasury, which he heads, but in the White House where he functions in the dual capacity of being overall economic policy chief.

Shultz, 52, appears eminently qualified for the job. He has a doctor's degree in industrial economics from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and is a former dean of the graduate school of business at the University of Chicago.

More importantly, he has performed quietly and efficiently in three different major roles within the administration, first as secretary of labor, next as head of the newly formed Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and recently as secretary of the Treasury with his new added duties in managing both foreign and domestic economic policy.

Although he opposed the imposition of wage and price controls, which trace back to the influence of the Secretary of the Treasury John Connally, Shultz is otherwise the epitome of the concept of pinning federal budget outlays to what they would be at the full employment level as a means of stimulating the economy without fanning any new fires in inflation.

When he stood before newsmen at the White House Dec. 11 and announced five major new administration economic policy moves, he was again demonstrating his massive influence over U.S. budgetary-financial policy.

Beyond such demonstrable evidence of Shultz' increased prominence it is difficult to sort out any clearly marked characteristics in the new Cabinet, although Elliot Richardson might provide some hints of what is to come.

He is to be the new secretary of defense.

Richardson, 52, a calm laud graduate of the Harvard Law School, is one of the most able and versatile administrators in government.

He has demonstrated ability to function with equal ease in the past as undersecretary of state and secretary of health, education and welfare.

Wherever he is assigned he projects business efficiency and an ability to separate what is important and achievable from what is peripheral and not within reach no matter how desirable.

The implication is that defense will be in for a major effort to make its spending more effective, presumably with fewer people and tougher business approaches.

County Savings Bond Sales $5.5 Million

Madison County residents purchased a total of $5,534,292 in Series E and H United States Savings Bonds in 1972, according to Henry D. Karandjeff, Granite City, volunteer county chairman of the savings bonds committee.

Illinois sales were up 14.4% for a total of $411,133,436 according to Clarence S. Sochowski, North Central regional director of the Treasury's Savings Bonds Division—the highest since 1968.

Purchases in Illinois accounted for 6.6% of the national total of $6,236,000,000 and 117.1% of the state's 1972 quota of $531,100,000.

As of the end of December 1972, the amount of savings bonds outstanding was $58.1 billion, an all-time record.

Theft Charge Filed, Items Found in Home

County Assistance Office Offers Aid to Veterans

The Veterans Assistance Commission Office at 201 Hillsboro St., Edwardsville, operated by a staff of three persons and volunteer help from service organizations, assisted by 4,800 veterans during 1972 in filling out forms and applications for pensions, compensation, loans, burial allowances, auto allowances and various other veteran benefits, it was reported this week.

The office is staffed by Superintendent Art Lindsey, 22nd District American Legion Commander, Charlene Doll, secretary, and Beulah Shemake, case worker. Granite City is represented in the program by Earl Smith, second vice-commander, and Rex Manning, service officer of Amvets Post 51, who participate in the monthly meetings and provide information and service to Quad-City area veterans.

Service officers of the various veterans organizations assist throughout the county, but none are paid for their services. The commission has a full set of elected officers.

Robert "Rip" Williams, Commander Alton Post 1308 VFW is secretary. Jess Bryant of Hamlet Post 1283 American Legion is assistant secretary. William Poole, commander of Cottage Hills Post 7678 VFW, is treasurer.

The executive board consists of Ralph Drury of Alton Post 126, past 22nd District Commander of the American Legion; Floyd Bunte of Wood River Barracks 521, World War I Veterans; Kenneth W. LeRoy Sr., Highland Post 439, and Don Hensley of Alton Post 3, Disabled American Veterans.

A report from the Veterans Administration shows a total of $3,234,561 has been distributed in Madison County by the federal government as benefits to veterans. The money is paid for compensations, pensions, education insurance and indemnities and direct loans.

Many of the veterans receiving these benefits had their applications filled out and filed by the Veterans Assistance Commission people in Edwardsville, it was noted.

The commission is operated under the Borgeas Act and receives funds from taxes levied in the county.

NETD Tests Planned At GCHS on Feb. 10

Granite City High School will administer the National Educational Development Tests at 8 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 10, in the school library.

Interested sophomores may register before and after school in the school guidance office.

The testing program helps professional educators, parents and students plan together for the educational and vocational future of the students.

James Dumont, principal, says that the NETD Program is being used because it will give the school the type of information it needs to help the students make realistic decisions. "The NETD will help us to help the student plan wisely for his future education and for his future career," he said.

"The program will reveal how well the students are using the skills they have acquired since entering school. It will help us recognize the strength in each student's educational development and, at the same time, will pinpoint weaknesses. This information will enable us to know how we can help a particular student while he is still in school, and will guide us in improving our program so that other youngsters can be helped earlier in their education."

7 Junior Colleges Join In 'Common Market' Plan

Copley News Service
Springfield—A pilot program described as the "collegiate Common Market" has been launched at seven junior college campuses involving nine counties in southern Illinois.

Aim of the program is to assess, and make more readily available, existing resources in the areas of the colleges which are located in a generally economically depressed segment of Illinois.

Dr. John Forbes, assistant secretary for the Illinois Junior College Board, said the program, known as the Southern Illinois Junior College Public Service Consortium, will vary from campus to campus, according to local needs or interests, but overall is designed to benefit all the participating schools and districts by merging their resources for increased scope with greater efficiency and less duplication.

The schools involved are: Shawnee Community College at Ullin; Rend Lake College at Rend Lake; Logan College at Carterville; Southeastern Illinois College at Harrisburg; and the three campuses which jointly are included in the Illinois Eastern Junior Colleges: Lincoln Trail College at Robinson, Central College at Olney and Wabash Valley College at Mount Carmel.

An initial grant of $37,720 has been made for the first year of the project, and additional grants are expected to be made to continue it beyond the initial stages, Dr. Forbes said.

Since applications for grants in the next fiscal year will not be received until spring, he added, it is not known now if the same amount, or more, less money may be allotted to the project.

Rend Lake College, while participating, joined after the organizational stages, Dr. Forbes said, and is not receiving any grant money in this fiscal period.

It is hoped that the project leads to establishment of new, or revised, curricula. Dr. Forbes said, particularly in the areas of the occupational and non-credit courses with conferences, short courses and seminars which hopefully would attract to the campuses area residents who might not otherwise become involved.

Though the overall goal of the program is to "identify needs and deliver services," project goals will vary in different districts.

Thus at John A. Logan College plans call for organizing and conducting a man-power survey of the district, offering seminars and conferences on the Occupational Safety and Health Act, projects on opportunities for senior citizens and informative programs on drug use and abuse, as well as co-operating with the state four-man council to provide summer melodramas to attract visitors, and cooperation in cultural programs for the general public.

The latter projects are funded entirely by the school, since the IJC lacks authority to fund such activities.

At Shawnee Community College seminars on the Occupational Safety and Health Act also are planned, while a custodial workshop for elementary and high school personnel in cooperation with the area vocational high school, is planned.

The entire operation is one of a whole system of pilot projects which are developed, carried out and evaluated at junior colleges through the state, on grants from the IJC, aimed at encouraging and assisting the community colleges to become and remain aware of needs in their own vicinities, and to develop ways of meeting them.

New Government Controls On Spending Are Expected

By CARL RITTER
Copley News Service
One of the truly high-powered firms concerned with the management of money is Boston Co.

Take its board of directors: economist Pierre Rinfret, who has hob-nobbed with the last three presidents of the United States; Herbert Cornelius, president of the Hawaiian Pacific Dillingham Corp.; Lee Iacocca, president, Ford Motor Co.

John McLean, president, Continental Oil Co.; Monroe Spight, director, Royal Dutch Petroleum Co.; C. W. Verity Jr., chairman, Armco Steel Corp.; F. C. Wiser Jr., president, Trans World Airlines; and 14 other high-caliber executives.

These people believe that over the next four years the development of new controls on federal spending will be the top priority item on the Nixon administration's agenda.

Responsible for the management of funds approaching $1 billion, Boston Co. had better be right in its thinking most of—if not all—the time.

The company has public stock, traded over-the-counter, and last year it earned $2,172,694, equivalent to $2.71 per share. This was up from earnings of $2,077,618, or $2.57 per share, for the year before.

John W. Cookson, executive vice-president of Investors Advisory Services, a Boston Co. affiliate headquartered in La Jolla, Calif., said in an interview that the record from the corporate brain trust in Boston is that five other items in addition to controlling federal spending are expected to receive all-out administrative attention in the upcoming Nixon years:

1. A final settlement in Vietnam.

2. An agreement with the Russians providing further limitations on nuclear arms and armed forces.

3. A revised and more stable international monetary system.

4. Continued improvement in our trade relations with other countries.

5. A reformation of the federal government structure so as to reduce wasteful spending and avoid any tax increase.

Said Cookson: "A more moderate trend in federal spending combined with a steady, controlled growth in the money supply coupled with some form of continued wage and price controls should serve to extend the life of the economic recovery and avoid the wide swings in interest rates and inflation which we have experienced in recent years."

"If so, it will be good news for investors,"

Cookson said he and Boston Co. feel that the volatile stock market environment of the last few years "is something investors will have to live with in the future."

He said continued volatility relates to an interruption of earnings growth and to the market's increasing institutionalization, with market activity largely concentrated in the hands of a relatively few large investors, as much as anything else.

"To succeed in this kind of investment climate," Cookson said, "it is necessary to pre-determine the maximum amount of risk exposure desired prior to security purchases."

"If this is done initially, in an objective and unemotional manner, it will eliminate any large potential losses in a portfolio."

Simon to Aid in Study of Adults' Education Needs

A broad-ranging study of the education needs of Illinois' 7 1/2 million adults will be undertaken by a 16-member task force on Adult and Continuing Education named Tuesday by Superintendent of Public Instruction Michael J. Bakalis.

The group includes former lieutenant governor Paul Simon, Sangamon State University professor of administration.

Bakalis has asked the 16 to suggest an overall plan to provide the broadest possible educational opportunities for Illinois adults — including those with less than eighth-grade educations, returning veterans, senior citizens, adults who need further vocational education or re-education, Spanish-speaking citizens and those with leisure time to spend.

Members include persons with wide experience in the field of adult education, legislators and local school officials. Heading the task force will be Kenneth Smith, director of continuing education of High School District 88 at Villa Park.

Bakalis particularly charged the task force with recommending statutory amendments to the Illinois School Code to meet guidelines of the new Illinois Constitution for "the educational development of all persons to the limits of their capacities."

He said, "It is time we fashion and educational system and an educational program which will satisfy the varied and diverse requirements of all our people, irrespective of age or circumstance."

"Education is no longer the exclusive province of the young," he continued. "Education must be for everyone and

Walker Limits Use of His Name in State Operations

Gov. Dan Walker on Monday issued a directive ending the practice of displaying the governor's picture in state government offices and ordering a minimum use of his name on documents, publications and stationery.

"Use the governor's name only when necessary to the conduct of government business," Walker ordered in a directive issued to all offices under the jurisdiction of the governor.

"Signs on highways for those entering the state should say something like 'The People of Illinois Welcome You.'"

"My name should not appear on your stationery, forms, annual reports, publications, and offices."

"In the long run, we can save money for the state by having for all time. A life of continuous learning must be our goal."

Bakalis, noting that 45% of the Illinois population over 18 does not have a high school diploma, asked the task force to recommend legislation to fully fund a system of free foundation-level education for adults in Illinois.

He also requested that the group determine if the cost of adult education through the secondary level should be a factor in a revised school aid formula.

The task force is to hold its first meeting Feb. 16 in Springfield and is to report back to Bakalis by Nov. 1, 1973.

permanent forms that do not have to be reprinted every time an official changes. A good example of this is the hunting and fishing licenses.

"Governmental forms and reports should not be utilized to give personal publicity."

The policy also will apply to all other personnel in the executive branch under the governor.

Fewer Persons Must File U. S. Tax Returns

Fewer taxpayers will have to file a tax return this year, Leon C. Green, district director of Internal Revenue for Central and Southern Illinois, said today.

Green pointed out that recent tax law changes have increased the income levels required for filing a return.

Now, a single person under 65 years of age with a gross income of less than $2,650 for the year does not have to file a return. This applies to minors and students, Green noted.

No return is required from anyone 65 or older unless their combined gross income is $2,800 or more, or $3,550 if one is 65 or older, or $4,300 if both are 65 or older.

However, even when the income is under limits, taxpayers should file a return to get a refund of any income tax withheld from salaries or wages, Green said.

Businessmen, farmers, and other self-employed persons must file a return if their net earnings from self-employment were $400 or more.

IRS Publication 528, "Information on Filing Your Tax Return," furnishes more detailed information. It is available free at any IRS district office.

House Republicans Begin Year in an Uneasy Truce

By KEN WATSON
Copley News Service

Springfield—This is a critical time for Republican members of the Illinois House.

Will they be able to end the bitter feuding that erupted in the opening of session battle over the speakership, patch up their differences and begin to function effectively as the majority party in the House?

Or will they continue in unprecedented division, unable to fulfill the traditional legislative role of a loyal but constructive opposition to the new administration of the rival party?

The two-weeks cooling-off period in the wake of the leadership battle has had a soothing effect. Tempers are less heated and the public wrangling has ceased.

Most encouraging of all, re-elected Speaker W. Robert Blair of Park Forest, has extended an olive branch to the opposing forces of arch-rival Henry Hyde of Park Ridge.

Blair has proposed some significant reforms of his own for improvement of the House operation including some voluntary relinquishment of powers ordinarily wielded by the speaker.

Hyde has responded in kind, speaking commendably of the Blair proposals and strengthening those party forces which are determined that Republicans must not fritter away their legislative power. They insist it is necessary to provide a balance to the new Democratic administration of Gov. Dan Walker.

House Republicans have been quietly advised by some important non-legislative leaders, to follow the example set by the GOP in the Senate.

In the Senate, Republicans had a lively behind-the-scenes contest for the presidential term, but settled it all peacefully and now have united firmly behind the winner, likeable William C. Harris of Pontiac.

But the Senate lacks the personality problems of the House and especially a large figure like Blair. Anti-Republican representatives still profess skepticism as to whether he will in practice surrender some of the authority he has wielded with such relish in the past.

They also point to his reneging on major provisions of the "deal" which finally won his re-election as speaker.

The Hyde force still insist they are fast-shuttled on pre-ballot commitments on secondary leadership posts.

House Republicans begin this crucial time in an uneasy truce. It is about as fragile as the ceasefire in Vietnam.

The rival GOP factions may unite behind a less imperious Bob Blair, but the Statehouse sands are no more than even that they will.

Poor Light, Overwatering Injure Plants

By WAYNE B. SIEFFERT
Horticultural Adviser

Sickly leaves on foliage plants are often due to poor light and overwatering.

Gradual fading of color, elongated leaf stems and progressively smaller leaves are typical when poor light is the problem. Opening the drapes and pruning outside shrubbery often provides adequate light.

When plants can be rotated to a bright or sunny area they soon return to the glossy beauty you desire. When rotation is not possible your fading plants will gradually die.

Overwatering is often the cause when plants seem to stop growing and lower leaves turn yellow. Planters and waterpots become a pond if you add too much water. Just one overwatering can kill most of the roots.

An ideal way to avoid overwatering is to use pots with drainage holes. Each time you water from the top until a surplus appears in the pan beneath the pot. Throw away this surplus water.

In stead of watering on schedule use the finger test. Feel the top of the soil before watering. If you can feel moisture, the plant has enough.

Small hard beetles on your window sill during late winter are probably carpet beetles.

Carpet beetles are a disaster when they get going in a favorite chair or on seldom-used clothes in your closet.

Finger-sized holes are the result of their feeding. They are attracted to light. As the beetles collect on the nearest window sill, they give a clue to the location of the rest of the family.

Careful house cleaning usually eliminates the colony from closets, heat registers and similar spots. Careful treatment with moth proofing sprays or storage with mothballs prevents damage.

For more details on identification and control, call the Cooperative Extension Service, 655-7200 (St. Clair County at 233-1977) for a free copy of U.S.D.A. Bul. 24, Clothes Moths and Carpet Beetles.

Program in American Studies Is Offered

"I think the most important thing about the American Studies Program is that it prepares the student to assume an intelligent role in the shaping of our future," John Oldani, adviser for the program, says.

The American Studies Program at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is an interdisciplinary course of study in American culture in the past and present.

Taking its roots from American history, literature and philosophy, American Studies at SIUE also branches into the fine arts, the American character, the nation's political scene and other areas.

"Studying America in this broad manner," the student avoids the traditionally narrow approach of a single discipline," Oldani said. "I think this interdisciplinary approach helps the student understand what is meant by the culture and civilization of America."

After a student completes the General Studies courses at SIUE he takes 42 quarter hours in specified courses in American history, literature and philosophy. Two interdisciplinary courses, one a seminar in the senior year, are taken in the area in which the student is most interested.

"This sequence of courses is truly a liberal arts course of study. It provides the student with a flexible program and also serves as a springboard in understanding American culture," Oldani said. There are 46 students in the program now.

The program is designed to prepare students for careers in government service, journalism, library administration, and social work.

The interdisciplinary approach to a degree — especially in American Studies — has become more acceptable to an employer in the last five years, Oldani believes. Employers now realize that a student must have a broader range of knowledge than they needed in the past, Oldani says.

Plant Expansions Partially Result of Gas Rationing

Although 1972 will be remembered by many as a year of major industrial declines in this metropolitan area, expansion of existing industrial facilities, along with the development of new manufacturing operations, promises to partially offset these declines, Richard H. Dykes has noted.

In a report made to the Illinois Metro East Industrial Development Corp. Board of Directors, Dykes, executive director, called attention to 11 major industrial developments for this region during 1972.

New developments announced during the year included purchase of the former American Metal Climax plant in Sauget by Amax, Lead and Zinc, Inc., proposed construction of a new facility in Belleville by Inter-Bern, Inc., and construction of a second area plant for B-Line Systems, Inc. in Troy.

Amex, a subsidiary of American Metal Climax, purchased the Sauget ore separation plant, which was closed in 1971 by American Zinc.

About $16.4 million will be spent by Amex in a modernization program at the plant. Zinc, cadmium and sulphuric acid will be produced when operations commence, and about 350 persons will be hired under a staggered program as output increases.

Intertherm, Inc., a St. Louis-based manufacturer of oil, gas, and sulphuric acid, announced during the year the planned construction of a 278,000-square-foot facility at Bell Valley Industrial Park in Belleville.

Preliminary plans call for completion in 1973. This new operation is expected to employ about 550 persons when in full production.

B-Line Systems has begun construction on its second area plant at a location in Troy. This new 33,000-square-foot facility will employ about 30 persons.

B-Line has an existing operation in Highland at which end products are metal struts and cable trays are produced.

Expansion or relocation projects also were announced or undertaken during 1972 by American Sheet and Strip Steel Corp. in the Granite City area, Cope Plastics, Inc. at Northport Industrial Park in Alton, Granite City Steel Co., Midwest Steel Corp. in Alton, Morris Paint Co. in East St. Louis, The Nestle Co. in Granite City, Reilly Tar and Chemical Corp. in Granite City and Shell Oil Co. in Wood River.

"Industrial development not only means the development of new industrial operations in an area, but more importantly the expansion of existing manufacturing facilities," according to Dykes.

"About 75% of new industrial growth in any area is usually realized through the expansion of existing operations."

"The year 1972 was typical in that eight out of the 11 projects announced or started during the year were either building expansions or relocations of existing firms."

"The closing or reduction of operations of Walworth Co. in East St. Louis, Union Tank Car Co. in Wood River and Corn Sweeteners, Inc. in Granite City, along with the impending shutdown of General Steel Industries operations in Granite City, underscores the importance of a continuing development program to create new job opportunities," Dykes said.

He reviewed the four Quad-City projects as follows:

A $109,000 expansion to handle data processing and systems functions is expected to be completed by spring 1973. The new computer operation will link the Granite City facility with Midwest Steel operations in Portage, Ind. The expansion will require some increase in employment at Granite City Steel.

THE NESTLE CO., INC. A $7,200-square-foot expansion for Nestle was completed during 1972. This new $450,000 warehouse will result in an increase of 10 employees.

REILLY TAR AND CHEMICAL CORP. Expansion of the Reilly Tar operations in Granite City began during 1972. The new building expansion is valued at $200,000 and will result in an increase of 10 employees.

AMERICAN SHEET AND STRIP STEEL CORP. Lake-side Industrial Park. An expansion of 25,000 square feet was completed during the year, doubling the size of the company's facilities at this location. Some increase in employment is projected as a result. The firm now employs about 50 persons.

Group to Study Loan Branching Proposal

A committee of savings and loan association executives has been named by J. N. Langworthy, president of the Illinois Savings and Loan League, to consider requesting a six-month moratorium on both federal and state branch and facility offices to give the state legislature time to consider the problems of branching.

He will ask the special committee to study the problem faced by savings and loan associations as a result of the recent edict of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board creating de novo branching for some of the institutions.

"The committee will consider a request for a delay in the board's action and a recommendation concerning the 100-mile limit on new branches."

Langworthy will also ask the committee, composed of federal and state chartered association presidents from all areas of the state, to make recommendations on the announced plans of Savings and Loan Commissioner John Langman to introduce legislation to give state chartered association de novo branching similar to the federal plans.

"It appears that the Federal Home Loan Bank Board study of Illinois branching did not consider how branching raises costs — and how to avoid passing these costs on to the public in the form of higher mortgage rates. Illinois rates are from a quarter to half a point lower than other areas," he noted.

"And it is not clear whether a branch 100 miles away is more expensive to operate than one 25 miles away."

State Permit Needed to Operate Incinerator

Copley News Service

Springfield—Anyone who operates an incinerator in Illinois, whether public, private, industrial or any other, must obtain an operating permit by March 1, or face action for violating the state's air pollution controls.

Ken Conklin, manager of the permits section of the division of air pollution control in the Environmental Protection Agency, said that most incinerators involved are large installations, fired by gas, though some are oil-fired, and costing several hundreds of dollars at a minimum. By definition, they usually include a primary chamber and an afterburner, or similar arrangements.

Some incinerators have also been sold for home use, he said, and anyone owning such an installation would have to apply for a permit, though whether or not it would meet acceptable standards for use would have to be decided after consideration of the application.

Specific standards are spelled out in the air pollution control regulations, under which incinerators can be operated, he said. The small outdoor burning device used by homeowners, and also described as an "incinerator," is already automatically banned under the open burning regulations approved by the state's Pollution Control Board.

The March 1 deadline applies to existing incinerators, after that date would have to obtain a permit before putting the equipment into use.

There is no charge for obtaining the permit, and forms for use in applying for one can be obtained from the EPA's division of air pollution control.

In most cases, Conklin said, permits probably will be issued for a five-year period, the maximum allowed by the standards regulation, and unless the standards themselves were altered during that five-year time, reapplying for a new permit simply would involve filing a statement that the original incinerator and its operation still were the same as they had been at that time of the original application.

More Illinoisans Than Ever Collecting Social Security

Approximately 1,400,000 Illinois residents are assured of an average monthly income during 1973 of about $130—a combined income for the year in excess of $23½ billion.

That income, of course, is in the form of Social Security payments and the recipients are those who qualify for benefits as retired or disabled persons, their dependents and survivors.

According to the Illinois State Bar Association, it is a record all around.

There are more eligible recipients in Illinois than ever before—up from 1,339,272 as of Dec. 31, 1971, and 1,360,728 at the end of 1969.

And, thanks to a 20% increase in benefits in October plus more recently expanded benefits the largest is greater than ever.

Only 12 years ago, in 1960, the average Social Security check for the retired worker was for $74.

Now, the average monthly benefit check for a 65-year-old retired person is $126 and for the disabled it is $173, generally, the disabled are younger persons who had a higher average earnings base while working.

For a disabled person with a wife and two dependent children, the average monthly payment is $354.

The size of today's Social Security checks is only part of the story. Amendments approved late in 1972, representing the most dramatic changes since the Social Security Act was adopted in 1935, also allow individuals to earn more through gainful employment without sacrificing their benefits.

And they provide for automatic increases in benefits, effective in 1975, any time the consumer price index goes up more than 3%.

The "earnings test" allows a person to earn up to $2,100 without loss of Social Security income. After that point is passed, yearly benefits are reduced only by $1 for every additional $2 earned.

Previously, after earnings of $1,680 the $1 for every $2 rule went into effect and after $2,380 there was a $1 reduction for every $1 earned.

Now the $1 for $1 deduction is eliminated. As before, there are no deductions made due to earnings of any amount by a person of age 72 or older.

With the new increase, some widowed recipients in Illinois and elsewhere were disappointed when they opened their January payment envelopes.

These widows expected their checks would be 100% of the benefits their husbands would have received had they lived to collect them or were receiving at the time of death.

However, the 100% rule applies only to those widows who applied for benefits after reaching age 65. Those who applied between ages 60 and 65 received proportionally smaller increases.

Across the country, only 1,800,000 of 3,500,000 widowed recipients received the full 100%.

With the new benefits goes a higher Social Security tax bite for the employee.

In 1973, both employer and self-employed persons are taxed on the first $10,800 of earnings—up from $9,000 in 1972. The tax rate also is higher—5.85% or $5.85 per $100 of earnings, compared to 5.2% in 1972.

Eventually, this rate will increase to at least 7.3% by the year 2011. Employers also pay a tax equal to that paid by employees.

State May Require Election Financing to Be Disclosed

By AL MANNING
Copley News Service

Springfield—Despite attempts to close the Anthony Angello issue, it will not be forgotten.

One reason is that Republicans charged that Gov. Dan Walker sold the Department of Insurance for a $50,000 campaign contribution. Another reason is because the Angello contribution is just one of thousands made to politicians during the year.

Campaign contributions are the single most corrupting influence on government in general, it is contended.

There is no law requiring Walker to disclose who contributed to his campaign, and he has not voluntarily revealed the information.

The excuse given during the campaign was that he couldn't make public his money sources because Gov. Richard Ogilvie hadn't done so. Ogilvie completed the circle by saying he could not because Walker would not.

The problem of financing campaigns for public office is not restricted to gubernatorial candidates nor statewide offices and it is not a partisan political question.

Here are examples: —Days before the November election, a lawsuit forced President Nixon to reveal the names of many contributors to his secret $10 million war chest. Some of the money was linked to the Watergate scandal.

—Former Gov. Otto Kerner relied on William Miller for horse racing advice at least partly because Miller loaned Kerner $120,000 during his successful gubernatorial bid.

The public knows little about campaign financing because politicians don't want to talk about it.

However, for the first time, evidence of how the system works is seeping out because of a new law requiring federal candidates to disclose who contributes to their campaign and how it is spent.

Gov. Walker talks about the "crisis of the lost faith in our government," but as far as we know only one official has voluntarily disclosed his campaign contributions, and that goes a long way toward resolving the crisis.

The official is Comptroller George Lindberg, a Republican. Despite the fact that his is not a sensitive office and the amount raised in no way compares to what some others raise and spend, the principle is an excellent one for other candidates to follow.

Legislators have plans to make the disclosure mandatory. House Speaker W. Robert Blair introduced one campaign spending bill this year and listed it as one of his legislative priorities. Sen. William Harris, Senate president, sponsored a similar bill in the last session. Gov. Walker endorsed the plans.

U. S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson has gone a step further in proposing that private campaign donations be limited to very small amounts, and public tax money be used to pay the major share of campaign expenses.

Two Radio Sets, Tools Stolen in Burglary

Two citizen's band radio transmitters and receivers valued at $280 and $100 and a box of assorted tools valued at $80 were stolen in a burglary of the Arco Oil Co., 1701 Madison Ave., it was reported at 6 a.m. Tuesday.

The burglary was discovered by two Northwestern Railroad detectives who noticed a front window was broken and a curtain was flapping in the breeze.

A 1971 tanker truck also was entered by forcing a wing window but nothing was missing from it.

Fewer Crises Confront New Governor Than 4 Years Ago

By KEN WATSON
Copley News Service

Springfield — There's a big difference from four years ago. The air of crisis is missing.

Democratic Gov. Dan Walker has been easing into the governorship in comparative calm.

In 1969, his Republican predecessor, Richard B. Ogilvie, was grappling with crisis from the day he entered the Statehouse.

The contrasting situations are already being directly reflected in the public response to the new governor.

Ogilvie took office with a modicum of popularity, having won election by 127,000 votes, but quickly began to lose it when the people began to realize that he would resolve the state's problems in the most direct way, that of raising taxes.

Walker, won the office with a 77,000 plurality, was far from popular on his inauguration day, but it is conceded even by Statehouse Republicans that his popularity has increased steadily since — and that there are indications the trend could continue for months to come.

A major factor, among others, is that the people have become aware that he has no immediate plans to raise taxes and are pleased that the new governor continues to stress plans for cutting state expenses.

There are some veterans beneath the Statehouse Dome who believe that Ogilvie lost the 1972 election during the first six months of 1968.

They are also inclined to believe that Walker may assure himself of a second term, or even a shot at national office, in the same period of time.

Unlike Ogilvie, Walker is confronted with no major crisis during his first half year in office.

He has had the limited problems of Chicago's financially ailing Transit Authority, and the periodic school pay squabble. But they are basically Chicago matters and not of proportions to threaten a governor's popularity statewide.

Ogilvie was confronted with a fiscal crisis that threatened to leave the state bankrupt before fall, close schools all over Illinois, bring higher education to a standstill, stop highway construction and actually cause welfare recipients to go hungry.

But the income tax, a hike in some other state taxes including the gasoline tax, realization of federal revenue sharing and a prospering and expanding national economy have since lifted the curtain of impending crisis.

Not everyone is entirely happy with things as they are. The higher education people, for example, are still unhappy about the Ogilvie restraint on their hopes.

But they have learned to live with budgets smaller than requested. And they show no inclination to push Walker to re-

Food Services Meet To Be Held at SIUE

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will host the Region IV Conference of the National Association of College and University Food Services Feb. 14-16 in the University Center.

According to G. William Crabb, director of food service at SIUE and host director for the conference, about 100 colleges and universities will be represented.

Region IV includes schools in Michigan, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. The theme for the conference will be "Competition to the University Food Service." Sessions will deal with management aspects of university food service.

Even the welfare people seem content to work with what financial resources they now have.

At a Capitol press conference, Walker indicated that the financial course is pretty well set for some months to come. He told reporters he would be operating basically under a budget already prepared—in effect, an Ogilvie budget.

What controversial issues Walker will have to deal with in his first six months will be relatively minor ones.

By IRWIN J. POLK, M.D.

Copley News Service
Nineteen seventy-two was a busy year for the allergists, with many advances recorded in both laboratory medicine and clinical practice.

Allergists are doctors who treat patients with diseases of hypersensitivity — diseases which develop when the patient comes in contact with some material to which he is sensitive.

Allergic diseases fill a broad spectrum of illness from insect stinging reactions through asthma. Last year the clinical allergists called attention to a lung condition named hypersensitivity pneumonitis.

This is a lung disease which may occur in 15% of people with allergies when they come in contact with certain molds.

It has symptoms including coughing and wheezing which may be confused with allergic asthma.

But while asthma has antibodies which are made in the blood and fix in the lungs, in the new hypersensitivity disease, antibodies against the offending mold can be found circulating in the blood.

In the same general area, still another allergic disease was described, a condition called "variant asthma." Here the patients, mostly children, have coughing as the most obvious symptom, rather than wheezing and shortness of breath which are typical of true allergic asthma.

There also were additional reports to show that children who are most allergic may often wheeze with viral infections, especially infections with a particular germ, the respiratory syncytial virus.

"Liquid crystal tape" was used for the first time last year in a technique for allergy testing.

Most allergy testing is now done on the skin, using small scratches or injections to expose the skin to substances which may cause allergies. Such tests are interpreted as positive or negative depending upon the area of heat, swelling and redness that is produced in the skin.

"Liquid crystal tape" is a plastic tape which contains liquid cholesterol crystals.

These crystals change color with changes in temperature, so the tape can be used to grade the changes in skin temperature after allergy testing, to provide a quick, objective method of recording results.

A few new allergens were reported last year as causes of allergy symptoms. For example, tartrazine, a food coloring, was noted to cause hives and asthma, especially in aspirin-sensitive patients.

Tetanus toxoid, the shot used to prevent lockjaw, was described as a potent antigen which may produce severe reactions after repeated dosages.

The reactions reported ranged from severe soreness at the injection site to chronic kidney disease.

As a result, too-frequent injections of tetanus boosters were described as potentially hazardous to health.

On the other hand, it has recently been shown that vaccines grown on egg-based material are usually safe for use even in egg-sensitive patients.

Since most of the egg protein has been removed from these vaccines, a history of intolerance to egg as a food is not reason in itself for the patient to avoid egg-based vaccines.

Skin testing of the patient with the vaccine in question was reported to be the best way to decide about sensitivity to a vaccine.

In allergy treatment, several advances were reported in 1972. Two new asthma drugs for use by spray were investigated. One of these was a drug in the cortisone family called beclomethasone.

Since it is used by inhalation rather than by mouth, it seems to cause less side effects than oral medicines.

The other new medicine is called salbutamol. It is in the family of medicines related to adrenalin.

Used by spray, this medicine is said to have better results than the current similar medicines, with fewer side effects.

Neither of these medicines is commercially available in the United States at present.

Meanwhile, from India there came a report of a drug extracted from the leaf of the plant Tylophora indica which seems helpful in preventing asthma when used by mouth. So, from this country and abroad, there's much news of the busy allergists.

Shield Law for Newsmen Urged In Washington

Copley News Service
Washington — Campus journalists from Illinois have sent their first spokesman to Capitol Hill to propose an absolute legal shield that would enable newsmen to protect their sources' without having to go to jail on contempt charges.

Joel Schatz, a 22-year-old Skokie senior majoring in journalism, was here this week from the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana, arranging interviews with members of the Illinois congressional delegation.

He is legislative representative for the campus SDX Freedom of Information Committee. "I'm contacting as many of the Illinois delegation as possible," Schatz said, noting that six campus Sigma Delta Chi chapters in the state already have launched a campaign in Springfield at the General Assembly.

Schatz is here to attend political-science credit sessions with a university YMCA group. He is using his free time to visit Capitol Hill on behalf of the proposed Shield Law.

Schatz said the University of Illinois SDX chapter initiated the Shield Law resolution at the national convention of the National Journalistic Society in Dallas. It was inspired by a campus talk given by Peter Bridges, the first reporter jailed for refusing to name his sources.

Five SDX chapters, besides

They are: Illinois Northwestern, Evanston; Northern Illinois University, DeKalb; Southern Illinois University, Carbondale; Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville; and Bradley University, Peoria. Schatz said, in addition to united SDX support for Shield legislation, the Illinois campus chapters are launching local campaigns.

Its Time Again for Your Flu Shots—Or Is It?

By IRWIN J. POLK, M.D.
Copy News Service

"Can I have my flu shot today, Doc? I hear there's a new strain of flu bug coming in from England soon and I want to be protected."

That's how I learned about the likelihood of a flu epidemic this fall, from one of my patients. He was right. There is a new strain of flu virus around and it may cause trouble.

Flu, or influenza as it is properly called, is an acute infection of the respiratory tract, the nose, throat and chest. It results in headache, fever, aches and pains, cold, sore throat and cough.

All of this makes the patient sick enough to go to bed. Flu is especially severe in the very young and the very old, in children a year or two of age and folks sixty and up.

The sickness is passed from person to person by sneezing and coughing, so it spreads rapidly through places like schools, factories and even hospitals where there is close contact between people.

It is spread person-to-person by passage of virus particles with sneezing and coughing. Flu virus causes a sickness like the common cold, but longer lasting and much more severe. Symptoms are like those of a bad cold, but much worse.

Like the cold, flu is caused by a virus. But unlike the virus of the common cold, flu virus can change a bit from year to year. This has happened this year.

A new strain of flu virus called A-England-42-72 has been isolated from patients with flu in England last January, and more recently in Southeast Asia, Australia and Singapore.

I offered the patient his shot. But as I drew it into the syringe, I felt obliged to say, "I'm not sure how much good this will do you. Flu vaccine is only helpful when it contains the strain of flu virus which is causing the epidemic."

"This vaccine was prepared some months ago and I know it does not contain the new strain of virus, so it may not protect you against the flu this year, at least not against the England-type."

There is a running debate in medical circles about the usefulness of flu vaccines anyway. Some scientists say that flu vaccines produce immunity in only 20% of the patients.

Other doctors feel that the vaccines are as high as 95% effective, if the vaccine is properly matched to the strain of virus causing the epidemic.

But there is general agreement that flu vaccines are not harmful for most people and can be given safely. So many doctors offer flu vaccines with the understanding that they won't hurt and may help to prevent the discomfort of influenza.

I cleaned the patient's arm with an alcoholic sponge as I got ready to give the shot. "Is there anything else I can do to help you from getting the flu," he asked. "How about vitamin C in large doses?"

I drove the needle home. "Vitamin C has never been shown to prevent the common cold or the flu," I replied, withdrawing the needle and wiping away a tiny droplet of blood. "I can't promise you any help from vitamin C."

"When do you expect the epidemic, if we're going to have one?" he asked, rolling down his shirt sleeve.

"Flu usually comes about the middle of January, or a little later. Last year there was a little flu all over the country, beginning about mid-October. Last year the Northeast was hit the worst, but the entire epidemic was mild and brief. The last large-scale epidemic of flu was in the winter of 1968-69."

"Since large outbreaks of flu don't happen more than once every 10 years or so, this shouldn't be a bad flu year."

"Anyhow, you've had your shot now. We've done what we can to prevent the flu. We'll just have to wait and see."

but at a slow pace, because it must be directly effective to production in the country."

The Chinese government, he emphasized, has no ambitions to send men into space. Tsiens explains it this way:

"We have a philosophy on space. Since all the people on earth are very busy, they are in a hurry to send people into space."

Nevertheless, Tsiens conceded, Chinese scientists have kept a close watch on U. S. manned space missions, including the first few days of the Apollo 17 flight.

They returned to China Dec. 15.

Dr. William Nordberg, Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS) project scientist, briefed the Chinese on missions of the spacecraft now orbiting the earth to look down and examine its resources, ranging from forests and crops to mineral deposits.

He said the Chinese displayed a surprising interest in the ERTS program. Some U. S. scientists have pointed out the ERTS spacecraft's potential as a surveillance or spy satellite.

Icy Pavement Causes 2 Nameoki Accidents

Icy pavement caused two accidents in a row and damaged six autos Monday on Nameoki Road at Richmond Avenue.

The first occurred when auto driven by Glenn A. Folter, 275 Ruth St., and Mary C. Stauter, 219 Ann Ave., skidded.

Stopping for that mishap, an auto driven by Rose Ann Bruemmer, Florissant, Mo., was straddled behind by car driven by Sandra K. Muehl, 157 Briarwood Lane.

An auto driven by James Foley, 2507 Lynch Ave., skidded into the rear of the Muehl car, while an auto driven by Edward J. Ennis, Rural Route 2, skidded into the back of Foley's car.

We've missed him for five long

We find comfort in knowing he's just a memory away,
And that we shall see him again some day.

NOTICE
In loving memory of LLOYD SNYDER who passed away on February 1, 1973.
The face I loved is now laid low,
His loving voice is still heard, and often clasped in mine.
Lies now in death's cold chill.
When I am all alone;
For memory is the only thing
That just can call us back to him.
In loving memory of DOROTHY
LYNN BORTH who passed away
January 30, 1967.
Sadly missed by

In loving memory of ROBERT
F. GIBBONS, February 3, 1968.
When loved ones go ahead of us
it's hard to say "Goodbye".
And sadly missed by
We are tempted to ask "Why?"
But they have found the peace and joy.
And in God's heavenly home,
Is they not who, truly live.

NEWLY BUILT PRODUCE DEPARTMENT at Kozyak's Grocery, 3000 Nameoki Road, now gives customers 1,200 square feet of shopping space. The area formerly was occupied by a laundry. William Kozyak, owner of the store, said he feels the additional space was needed due to a trend away from frozen vegetables and meet an increasing demand for fresh produce. Mrs. Norma Hemken, a customer, is shopping in the new department.

Silver Beavers, Fawn to Be Awarded at Scout Dinner

Presentation of three Silver Beavers and one Silver Fawn will highlight awards to be made Feb. 8 at the 2nd annual Scouter Appreciation dinner at the Trinity Lutheran School in Edwardsville, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The Silver Beaver is the highest award a local Boy Scout Council can bestow on an adult leader.

The Beaver is given for outstanding service to youth and the community. A leader must have at least 10 years of active service in Scouting before he may be considered for the honor.

A special committee is appointed every year to make the selection.

The Silver Fawn is awarded to a woman using similar standards for selection.

Recognition also will be given to Scouters, both men and women, for years of service to Scouting by Jack Vance of Edwardsville, council commissioner and C. Rollin Henn, Granite City, assistant council commissioner and former council president.

Appreciation awards to several young men who have made outstanding contributions to Scouting and the Cahokia Mound Council will be made by Dr. Thomas Layloff, Granite City, dinner chairman and chairman of the council activities committee, and W. F. "Mick" Strange, of Madison, council camping chairman.

The Rev. Frank Christ, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church, Madison, will give the invocation.

Roy W. Oscarson, executive vice-president of Edison Brothers in St. Louis, and the Swedish vice-council will introduce Elder Robert L. Simpson of Salt Lake City, Utah, assistant to the Council of The Twelve of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, the speaker of the evening.

The dinner will be open to the public, but tickets must be purchased in advance and may be obtained from the Boy Scout Service Center, 1338a Niedringhaus Ave.

Melvin Gillie, manager of the Granite City W. T. Grant Co. store and local Boy Scout president, will serve as master-of-ceremonies.

Pet Adoption Clinic Set Saturday in GC

Four bouncy part-Husky puppies, a bird dog and two Burmese kittens are among the pets to be offered for adoption Saturday by the Quad-City Association for the Protection of Animals (APA), Mrs. Judith Johnson, president, announced today.

The adoption project, the first in almost a year, will take place at Aqua Land, 1233 Nineteenth St., under the direction of the APA's Student Branch, Miss Cathy Harsh, adult sponsor, is supervising the project.

Adoptions can be made between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Saturday, Miss Harsh said.

All pets to be offered have received their initial distemper shots, the APA adviser said. A number of kittens and puppies will be available, in addition to a large male part-poodle and several long-haired guinea pigs.

A donation is required to adopt an animal, with the amount varying, she explained. Funds collected in this manner help to pay the cost of inoculations and the remainder is added to the APA education fund.

At Aqua Land, the pets will be housed in cages donated by several area organizations, Mrs. Johnson noted.

Among those groups which contributed funds to aid the APA are the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club, the Trailriders, American Legion Auxiliary Tri-City Post 113 and local sorority chapters. One animal not to be offered for adoption Saturday, presently in APA custody, is a 25-pound pet skunk, owned by a Granite City resident, Mrs. Johnson reported.

Madison NAACP To Elect Officers

A slate of unopposed candidates for officers of the Madison branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was nominated during a chapter meeting at the Friendship Baptist Church, Madison, this week.

The group also made plans for showing a film, "From Montgomery to Memphis," the story of Dr. Martin Luther King, in April. A place and date will be announced later.

Hugh Hairston, state NAACP finance chairman and membership solicitor of the national organization, said the officers to be elected by acclamation in a meeting Feb. 11 will include

Harvey Riley as president and Curle Davis as vice-president. Other officers nominated are Willie Deshaun, secretary; Lou Silas, assistant secretary; Oscar Hampton, corresponding secretary; Mabel Dandridge, treasurer, and John Williams, assistant treasurer.
